Libraries need state funding

Loss of funding will impact through decreased interlibrary loan program

By JAYNE W. MILLER

WILMINGTON-TEWKSBURY-BOSTON - Sitting on the Governor's desk this week is a supplemental budget bill passed last week by both legislative houses, which includes monies for the regional library system. If the Governor vetoes the bill, even the more casual library user will feel the pinch. Action on the bill us due by August 8.

House Bill 4181 would restore $1.29 million to the regional library system. The controversial bill also includes $40 million for legal immigrant healthcare, $2.5 million for grater Boston zoos, and about $12 mill for the trial courts.

Patrick spokesperson Cyndi Roy told the Crier Monday that the Governor is still reviewing the bill.

"I don't think he's made a decision one way or the other," said Roy.

The legislature, instead of overriding the Governor's budget vetoes, which requires a two-thirds majority, amended Patrick's supplemental budget that he filed in late June, just before the beginning of the new fiscal year.

"It's an unusual way of addressing overrides," said Roy.

The regional library system is part of the Massachusetts Board of Library Commissioners and offers cities and towns four valuable services: infrastructure for the delivery of books between libraries all over the state, access to important databases, free training for library staff, and summer reading programs.

Olin Superfund update

EPA gives conditional approval of work plan

By JAYNE W. MILLER

WILMINGTON - The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) issued a conditional approval of the Olin Superfund site work plan last month. The town and a local environmental group, along with their professional environmental consultants, issued comments on the plan thus far. Fieldwork is expected to commence in September.

"Although several conditions and comments remain, this Draft Final Remedial Investigation/Feasibility Study Work Plan satisfies a majority of the concerns previously raised by EPA and provides a satisfactory cure to the deficiencies outlined in EPA's letter of March 12, 2009," states the conditional approval, dated July 16.

According to the EPA, the Remedial Investigation/Feasibility Study is a process to evaluate the nature and extent of the contamination as well as requiring the parties to "continue operation of an ongoing treatment system, monitor an on-site containment area and install an off-property pilot extraction well."

The Olin Corporation submitted a new draft Remedial Investigation/Feasibility Study work plan in late April following the March 12 letter, on which, the citizens group Wilmington Environmental Restoration Committee (WERC), the town of Wilmington, and other stakeholders and representatives commented.

Following the conditional approval, WERC, the town, and their environmental consultant - GeoInsight - offered further comments. EPA Remedial Project Manager, Jim DiLorenzo, issued com-

Fun for all at Charity Auction

WCF plans mega auction for Sept. 20

By JAYNE W. MILLER

WILMINGTON - Take one of the many rainy days this summer - and there have been plenty - to clean out an attic, basement, or garage and donate some treasures to the Wilmington Community Fund's upcoming auction. The auction is the largest fundraiser of the year for the WCF and all the proceeds go directly to helping Wilmington families, organizations, and the food pantry. Be sure to mark the calendar for the date, September 20, and be sure to come out and bid on one of these hidden treasures, gift certificates, sports tickets, or a week at a vacation house.

"We've never had the amount of people in need of food as we have today," Joan Searfoss, a Director of the WCF, told the Crier. "So many people have been laid off from their jobs."

In Wilmington the WCF is the food pantry, not two separate entities, as many believe, the brainchild of two board members back in 1992, during another recession. The idea was that if a family could get the food it needed, scarce dollars could be allocated to pay an electric bill or mortgage payment. But the WCF offers much more than food.

"If we hear of a family that needs assistance in any particular manner we try to do our best to assist them," explained Searfoss.

Examples of the good works of the WCF include donating a Jaws of Life to the Wilmington Fire Department last year, handing out hundreds of carbon monoxide detectors to residents,

Big hearts, tiny tots

Another fun-filled season for the Tiny Tots program

By KERRI STINSON

WILMINGTON - Recently finishing its last day, Tiny Tots had another successful program this summer. Tiny Tots is a summer program run through the Wilmington Recreation Department for children between the ages of four and seven. This summer, Tiny Tots was held at the Boutwell Early Childhood Center.

Two sessions were held throughout the summer. The first session was from June 23 through July 10 and the other was from July 13 through July 29. Each day, the children arrived at the Boutwell School by 9:00 a.m. and left at 12:00 p.m.

Each day at Tiny Tots there is a theme, which is incorporates what the children wear to the snack the children eat that day. On a rock-and-roll themed day, the children made an edible microphone with a pretzel rod dipped in frosting.

Also, the theme of the day is incorporated into the story read that day, as well as the type of arts and crafts project the children do. Outdoor activities make up a significant portion of the day at Tiny Tots. On a water-themed day, for instance, the children spend most of the day outside engaged in water activates with little pools and sprinklers that the staff sets up.

Tiny Tots was able to schedule several different types of entertainers to perform for the children. The children were able to listen to the silly stories of storyteller Joe

Awesome August at the Book Store Next Door

WILMINGTON - There are five weekends this month to shop at the Book Store Next Door to the Wilmington library, 183 Middlesex Avenue is open on Saturdays from 10:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m. and Sundays 12:00 p.m. - 3:00 p.m. The Book Store Next Store is also open Wednesday evenings, 4:00 p.m. - 7:00 p.m. for those of you who need to unwind after a long summer's day. Take advantage of these extra hours to avoid the crowds and spend some quality browse time acquainting yourself with our ever-changing stock. Summer has finally albeit late, so even though there is talk of football in the air, let's not forget that there are a lot of summertime activities ahead such as throwing parties for all occasions, gardening, traveling, eating, exercising, and reading. New donations of all genres arrive weekly, and the Book Store Next Door continues to attract first-time visitors. The Book Store Next Door welcomes your comments. The bookstore is run entirely by volunteers and all proceeds benefit the Library through the Friends. Check out the library for additional fundraiser events and many thanks for your continued support. Contact Leslie Dietrich, 978.657.6536 or lesd4@verizon.net for volunteer opportunities, donation assistance, or questions.

Life is not all fun and games... unless, of course, you took part in the Wilmington Recreation Department's Tiny Tots program this summer. We at the Town Crier can't even imagine what this game is all about, but we'd sure like to give it a try.

Teddy Bear Picnic Wednesday, August 12th on Wakefield Common

WAKEFIELD - He's performed at the White House, at Fenway Park, at Great Woods, on the Disney Channel and at festivals, zoos and parks throughout New England and on August 12th, Wakefield will welcome Bill Shontz and his Teddy Bear Picnic to a very special free Concert on the Common.

B.Y.O. B. means Bring Your Own Bear to this joyous event – Bill Shontz welcomes his little friends by singing songs from his award-winning release: . "Teddy Bear's Greatest Hits." There are original songs such as "Miranda the Panda" and "Teddy Rockin'" as well as classic RosenShontz hits, like "Rock 'n' Roll Teddy Bear" and "One Shoe Bear." You'll also hear "Teddy Bear", "Christopher Robin" and "Bare Necessities." Of course, no Teddy Bear's Picnic would be complete without singing "Teddy Bear's Picnic."

Bill Shontz, a former music professor at The University of Illinois who has been called "A Master of the Woodwinds," was for twenty years one half of the nationally acclaimed duo, RosenShontz. He has entertained millions of children and their parents throughout the country with his imaginative and witty style of music and humor.

The creator of ten award-winning albums (that have sold over 700,000 copies) and three videos, Bill is particularly proud of his recording, "Teddy Bear's Greatest Hits" which won the 1998 Parent's Choice Gold Award for excellence in children's entertainment, the NAPPA Gold Award and was a finalist in the Children's Music Web Awards in the Best Music for Young Children Category.

Bring your teddy bear, your blanket, and, of course, your favorite child to this lovely event - the Teddy Bear Picnic will take place at 7:00 p.m. on Wednesday, August 12th on Wakefield Common. In the event of inclement weather, the concert will be held on August 13th.

The Teddy Bear picnic is part of the Wakefield Chamber of Commerce's ninth annual summer concert series. Concert sponsors include the Dockside Restaurant, Charles Hartshorne Insurance, the Wakefield Cooperative Bank, P. F Bruno & Company, Bellino's Restaurant, Christopher J. Barrett Realtors, Harrington's, Holiday Travel and The Savings Bank. All concerts begin at 7:00 p.m. and will extend until dusk.

The other concerts in the series include the Black Velvet Band Irish American concert (August 19th rain date August 20th) and Casterbridge Union Irish American band concert including step dance demos and clam chowder samples (August 26th, rain date August 27th). For more information, email chamber@wakefieldma.org or call 781-245-0741.

Tewksbury town employee termination

Two town employees tied to health insurance investigation

By STEPHEN BJORK

TEWKSBURY - Two municipal employees - a mother and son - are no longer working for the Town of Tewksbury, and the District Attorney's Office has been asked to investigate the matter that led to their departure.

According to Town Manager David Cressman, the Town was notified by Blue Cross/Blue Shield on July 15, 2009 of possible irregularities to its health insurance program enrollment. Cressman and Tewksbury Police Chief Al Donovan initiated an investigation of the irregularities.

On July 15, according to Cressman, Melanie Sitar reimbursed the Town $1,850 and tendered her resignation. Melanie Sitar has been a town employee for approximately 10 years and held the title Administrative Services Assistant, with responsibilities that included enrollment and administration of the town's health insurance policy. She made an unsuccessful bid for a seat on the School Committee in 2004.

The Town continued its investigation, and notified Sitar on July 30 that it was commencing discharge proceedings. On July 31, the Town officially terminated her employment.

On July 29, 2009, Michael Sitar III, Melanie's son, resigned from the Tewksbury Police Department. Michael's connection to the matter has not been made public, and Cressman would not elaborate on the connection, but his resignation was accepted.

Michael has been a Tewksbury Patrol Officer for less than a year. He has worked as a permanent and reserve dispatcher for the Tewksbury Police Department since roughly 2006. He also held public office in town, serving one term on the School Committee. He won his seat in an uncontested race in 2006. He pulled and returned nomination papers for reelection in 2009, but pulled out of the race just prior to election day.

Michael's father and brother - Melanie's husband and son - are both employed by the Tewksbury Fire Department.

Cressman has requested the Town's Independent Auditor to conduct an audit on dependents who were added to the Town's health insurance policy or switched to COBRA coverage from January, 2007 to July 15, 2009.

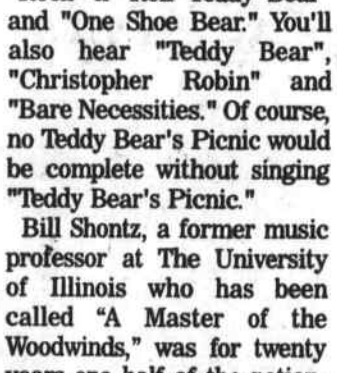

Additionally, Donovan has referred the matter over to the District Attorney's Office.

Michael Sitar III declined to comment on the matter. Melanie Sitar could not be reached for comment.

It's Your Money

LEASE A CAR FOR BUSINESS?

Leasing a car for business is somewhat more advantageous this year. When a vehicle worth more than $18,500 is leased for business, the lessee must pay income tax on a certain amount the IRS specifies; this year, the amounts are lower.

What kind of numbers are involved? For a $36,000 car put in use this year, the income attributed to the lease would be $47 for a full year, then $102 for 2010 and $151 for 2011. For a car put into service last year, the three-year income boosts would be $103, $224 and $333. These additions to some extent offset the deductions for lease payments.

If you buy instead of leasing, the depreciation figures have not changed for this year. The cap on depreciation for the first year is $10,960 for new cars and $2,960 for used cars. For the second and third years, the limits are $4,800 for new cars and $2,850 for used cars. After that, the ceiling is $1,775.

Lease or buy, what's right for your business? Discuss your options with the business specialists at

by Betsy Woods McGuire

TV Potpourri

I find television very educational. Every time somebody turns it on, I go into the other room and read a book. (Groucho Marx)

Am I the only person on earth who wants to be left alone? The compulsion to always be "communicating" is beyond me. I don't talk on the phone unless I have to, no texting, no iPod-e-God, no Blackberry, no faxing, twittering, frittering away the day, responding to this ding, ping, ring-a-ling plaything, master of one's time.

Leaving the library one day, a woman walked right out in front of me - she never saw me or heard the car. I stopped suddenly, sat there and watched while she brushed up against my car. The best part, she was barely startled, consumed with her frantic search for the phone in her oversized handbag. She walked along oblivious that she came close to being knocked into next week.

A cousin of mine has this message on her home phone: "I'm screening my calls, don't leave a message unless absolutely necessary." My kind of woman! Another friend, when answering his phone, rips the receiver off the wall and in a condescending, irritated tone says, "Yeeees!" I love this guy. Wasn't it Archie Bunker who answered his phone with one word, WHAT, implying, now what?

Television addiction falls into the same category if you ask me - a mindless box that steals your time with your permission. Every night, millions of Americans, for hours and hours, sit there, propped up, half-glazed over, willingly bombarded with ads, propaganda and drivel. Yes, chewing gum for the mind, as Eric Sevareid put it so well. Still, in spite of "all of that" there is television that is worth watching.

Wilmington Community Television (WCTV) is nothing like network TV and that's why I like it so much. Local television, or public access as it's called, means that many of the programs are produced by the people in the community. If you consider the "characters" we have ... well, this means you're going to be entertained in a way that just isn't possible by seeing a movie at Showcase or watching one of your favorite nightly programs.

Volunteers and WCTV staff cover town events and board meetings. The Board of Selectmen meetings are by far the most fun - some are side-splitters, some are filled with uneasiness and outright hostility. I prefer the latter - a kind of "democracy in your face" style of government, I'd call it. Any of us who have followed town politics for any length of time can easily go back and name the four-star ratings we would give to many of the Selectmen meetings we've watched on WCTV. Some of us will admit to checking the schedule and watching all over again. If you keep your sense of humor, to see our elected officials (remember, they wanted these jobs) being taken to task and at times raked over the coals, to see Joe-citizen call them names and even curse at them (most recently, On-the-Run comes to mind) - I mean, it doesn't get much better than that. And you can make your own popcorn, get comfortable in that Lazy-Boy, all free of charge.

WCTV offers classes and provides the resources that are needed to produce your own show. Some shows are filmed at home, like the Glitzy Gourmet, who puts her recipes together in her own kitchen. And what about the guy who lifts weights in his unfinished basement, while repeatedly telling his kids to get out of the way of the camera? Talk about real. There are sports shows, interviews, profiles and parades, concerts and candidates nights, pious and pompous preachers and grandmotherly teachers - amateurs, beginners and the dedicated dabblers of the diversion.

And speaking of that, I have a few suggestions of my own. How about a "crossfire" format - a combination of five contrary, outspoken, well-known residents, duking it out, no holds barred, on any number of controversial topics? The fifth person would be the voice-of-reason moderator. Sounds like a blast to me, any volunteers? And I think we need a Rona Barrett gossip-type show. Isn't it legal to pick on public figures or to repeat harmless rumors or to air the dirty laundry if you hear it on the grapevine? I've even thought about Betsy's Best Bets LIVE (did I really say that)!

Beyond TV programs, there's WCTV Cable Radio. When the billboard is on, the music you hear in the background is often provided by DJs who have used their own personal music collection to record in-studio radio shows. Jazz Access, Lilies & Remains, Mike's Music Machine and my favorite, Blues in the Basement, are some of the shows that people from the community have produced through classes provided by WCTV.

In addition, if you'd like to rise above the personal and the petty and perhaps reach for a little culture, Classic Arts Showcase is the best show in town. I'm hooked - it's impossible to pull myself away. Video clips, about five minutes long, back-to-back, arranged in no particular order, are fascinating. All of the classic arts, ballet, opera, dance, music, classic film and much more are featured in such a way as to peak your interest and anticipation. Each video is just long enough to grab you but short enough to make you want more. You find yourself saying "I'll just watch one more." Classic Arts Showcase is a satellite broadcast, distributed free to all non-profit, public access television. You can catch it at 10:00 p.m. most nights.

The whole idea behind local television is self-expression. WCTV gives individuals a forum to voice their concerns, support their causes, or show off their talents. The new state-of-the-art studio at 10 Waltham Street is grand. Drop by, if you haven't already - someone will be happy to show you around. Sign up for a class (classes for kids too), say whatever you want, go ahead, get it off your chest, the 1st Amendment will protect you.

Wilmington Cooks

by Paula Murphy

Maybe it's because its summer and we're all on vacation, but I haven't been getting many e-mails. Please keep sending me your recipes and stories by e-mailing paula.wilmingtoncooks@hotmail.com so I can keep this column going!

Many thanks to all of you who reminded me last week that marinara sauce is made with a can of whole tomatoes squished through your hands into the oil and garlic—not, as the recipe I posted stated, a can of crushed tomatoes. Of course you're right! My apologies.

Thanks too, to all who jumped on the zucchini bandwagon and offered recipes for zucchini-laden baked goods. Here they are.

Zucchini Whoopie Pies

1 cup grated zucchini
1 tsp. baking soda
½ cup shortening
1 tsp. vanilla
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. salt
1 cup sugar
1 tsp. baking powder
1 egg
2 cups flour
½ tsp. cloves
½ cup milk

Filling:

8 ounces cream cheese, softened
3 Tbsp. soft butter
1 Tbsp. confectioner's sugar
1 tsp. vanilla

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Mix zucchini, sugar, baking soda, baking powder, shortening and egg in a large mixing bowl. Mix dry ingredients and add to bowl, alternately with the milk. Combine until smooth, and stir in vanilla. Drop by spoonfuls, keeping each as close to the same size as possible, on a lightly greased cookie sheet, and bake for 9—10 minutes. Mix filling while cookies cool. Spread filling on one cookie, and top with another.

Zucchini Muffins

1 cup grated zucchini
½ cup; chopped nuts
½ cup brown sugar
¾ cup butter
3 eggs
1 cup plus 2 Tbsp. flour
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. baking soda
½ tsp. cinnamon

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Cream the sugar and butter in a large mixing bowl. Add eggs one at a time. Blend in flour, salt, baking powder, baking soda, and cinnamon. Blend in zucchini and nuts. Fill greased muffin tins ¾ full, and bake for 15 - 20 minutes. These are good split in half, and spread with cream cheese.

Zucchini Bread

2 cups grated zucchini
1 cup chopped nuts
3 eggs
2 ¼ cups sugar
1 ½ tsp. vanilla
1 cup oil
3 cups flour
½ tsp. baking powder
4 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. salt

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Mix eggs, sugar, zucchini, vanilla and oil in a large mixing bowl. In a second bowl, mix flour, baking powder, cinnamon, baking soda, and salt. Mix the dry ingredients into the wet ones, and add nuts, blending well. Pour into two greased and floured loaf pans, and bake for one hour, or until knife inserted comes out dry. This is also good spread with cream cheese.

Winchester Hospital launches PROMISE

WINCHESTER - Each time a patient or visitor enters Winchester Hospital, they are entrusting our staff with the responsibility for their health and well being. How well Winchester Hospital responds to that trust is vital to their success.

To demonstrate their staff's commitment to making each encounter between patients and the community the best it can possibly be, Winchester Hospital recently launched PROMISE:

- Promoting Teamwork to support one another organization-wide while valuing and respecting the individual;
- Respect so everyone's unique background is appreciated;
- Ownership in setting new benchmarks for quality and service;
- Maintaining a Positive Attitude by offering ideas and solutions;
- Initiative in improving our environment by making processes more organized, comforting and patient-friendly;
- Safety and Quality to ensure that conditions which do not comply with our high standards are corrected immediately;
- Empathy in recognizing and responding to needs and concerns before they grow into larger issues.

The PROMISE program complements Winchester Hospital's Patient Service Excellence initiative, which is designed to provide the best possible hospital experience. Following a recent review of comments from patient satisfaction surveys, for example, our Service Excellence Response Team implemented strategies to successfully reduce noise on patient care units. In addition, free valet parking was introduced at Winchester Hospital's main campus to better meet the needs of patients and their friends and families.

"We are committed to making every patient's experience the best that it can be," said Lauren Reardon, director of guest services and service excellence at Winchester Hospital. "Toward that end, we share patient satisfaction results with staff on a weekly basis while continually looking for ways to improve our programs and services."

Winchester Hospital has been recognized nationally for providing outstanding patient experiences. In the most recent public reporting of data collected by the Hospital Consumer Assessment of Healthcare Providers and Systems (HCAHPS), Winchester Hospital equaled or exceeded state and national averages of overall patient satisfaction in nine of 10 areas. The survey, conducted by Press Ganey Associates, encompasses adult patients in all inpatient areas, except psychiatric, who were discharged between Jan. 1 and Dec. 31, 2008.

"Our actions and behaviors create lasting impressions," said Kathy Schuler, vice president of patient care services and chief nursing officer at Winchester Hospital. "For this reason, we must be ever vigilant in making our PROMISE to the community a core part of who we are."

Sean Sleeper graduated from Infantryman Training

Army Pvt. Sean C. Sleeper has graduated from the Infantryman One Station Unit Training at Fort Benning, Columbus, Ga. The training consists of Basic Infantry Training and Advanced Individual Training.

During the nine weeks of basic combat training, the soldier received training in drill and ceremonies, weapons employment, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, physical fitness, first aid skills, and Army history, core values and traditions. Additional training included development of basic combat skills and battlefield operations and tactics, and experienced use of various weapons and weapons defenses available to the infantry crewman.

The Advanced Individual Training course is designed to train infantry soldiers to perform reconnaissance operations; employ, fire and recover anti-personnel and anti-tank mines; locate and neutralize land mines and operate target and sight equipment; operate and maintain communications equipment and radio networks; construct field firing aids for infantry weapons; and perform infantry combat exercises and dismounted battle drills, which includes survival procedures in a nuclear, biological or chemical contaminated area.

He is the son of Sue Sleeper of Beckley St., Barre, Vt., and the grandson of Mary Labossiere of Adelman Road, Wilmington, Mass.

Sleeper is a 2006 graduate of Spaulding High School, Barre.

Those traveling on the Mohegan Sun Day trip of next Thursday, August 13th, are reminded that the bus shall depart from the Senior Center at 7:00 a.m. It is asked that travelers park along the perimeter of the parking lot so as to allow ample parking for those participating in activities during the day at the Senior Center. Your anticipated cooperation will be appreciated.

Tickets for the September 18th Foxwood day trip will go on sale next Monday, August 17th at 8:15 a.m.

The Friends of the Elderly will hold a dance next Friday, August 14th beginning at 7:00 p.m.

Entertainment for the evening will be the Fred Manzi Band. Dance tickets are $10 per person and may be purchased in advance or at the door.

Then on Monday, August 17th, DJ Jon Mansfield will return for an afternoon of dancing. Tickets for this event are $5 per person. The afternoon activity begins at 11:30 a.m. with lunch by the Merrimack Valley Nutrition Project followed by dancing. Please note that the last day to purchase a ticket for this event will be next Wednesday, August 12th.

A new traditional line dance class instructed by Cindy Gray will be held each Thursday morning at 9:30 a.m. All are welcome. This class is in addition to the Tuesday Country Line Dance class.

The Wednesday Cribbage players will hold a Cribbage Tournament on Saturday, August 22nd. The registration fee for the tournaments is $20 per person and is now being accepted. For more information one may contact Alice Carroll or Kay Maher on Thursdays at 978-640-4480.

An Activities Meeting will be held in the conference room on Monday, August 24th at 1:00 p.m.

All are welcome to attend. One may want to mark his/her calendar with the date of the next Senior Center Breakfast Benefit which will be held on Sunday, August 30th from 7:30 to 11:00 a.m.

Please note that due to the Labor Day holiday, the Upscale will be accepting consignment goods for September on Monday, August 31st.

Next week's column will note the start dates of Fall art classes resuming at the Senior Center this September.

The Seniors & Friends will hold its 12th Annual Mary Ann Wareham Golf Connection Tournament at the Indian Country Club on Monday, September 14th. Many golfers have enjoyed this tournament over the years. The entry fee is $130 per person or $500 per foursome. The outing includes a continental breakfast, carts, a sit down dinner, prizes and a great day of golf. One may obtain a registration form at the Tewksbury Senior Center. For more information one may call 978-640-4480 or 978-851-4243. Proceeds from the tournament benefit the Tewksbury Senior Center. Sponsorships and/or donated raffle items will be greatly appreciated.

The crafts class will hold its Annual High Tea at the Senior Center on Sunday, September 20th at 2:00 p.m. Tickets are now available at $12 per person and are limited to 150 people. The High Tea will feature entertainment with John O'Niel's "Lullaby for Broadway" and the delightful catering of Diane Legere.

SHINE Counselor, Jill Mullen, is at the Senior Center on Tuesdays by appointment only. To arrange an appointment, one may call the Senior Center at 978-640-4480. Ms. Mullen is available to advise Senior Citizens on medical insurance options.

The Senior Center's Snooti Patooti Gift Boutique is open Monday through Thursday from 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The Upscale Consignment Boutique is open for shopping on: Tuesday and Wednesday from 12:00 to 3:00 p.m. and on Thursdays from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m.

A pleasant week is wished to all. God Bless America.

William J. "Bill" Hanlon

Served on town boards; youth sports and church

WILMINGTON - Mr. William J. "Bill" Hanlon, age 79, of Wilmington, died Wednesday, July 29, 2009, following an "Outstanding Life." Bill was born on May 25, 1930, in Norristown, Pennsylvania, son of the late George and Kathleen (Bowe) Hanlon. Bill grew up in Norristown and was a graduate of St. Patrick's High School. Bill joined the Navy in 1951 during the Korean War, he served all over the Pacific for four years and was honorably discharged in January of 1955.

In the late 1950's and early 1960's, Bill studied Electrical Engineering at Northeastern University in Boston. Prior to retiring, Bill was employed as a Training Technician for the Ciba-Corning Medical Company.

He married Theresa M. Kennedy on May 14, 1955 in St. James Church in Medford, MA, together they celebrated over 54 years of marriage and a wonderful family life. Bill and Terry lived in Medford for the first few years of their marriage and in June of 1959, they moved to Wilmington to raise their children and be foster parents to many other children.

Bill quickly became involved in the community, he was a member of the Planning Board, Finance Committee, he coached the Midget Hockey League for many years, a Charter Member of the Fr. Croke Council Knights of Columbus, an active member of St. Thomas Church where he taught CCD and was a Eucharistic Minister.

Bill was always willing to help others, he was a good neighbor and friend to many in Wilmington. Bill was also very active and involved in Special Olympics and Merrimack College Football in Andover. They were two activities that he shared and enjoyed with his son Tommy.

Bill will be remembered by his family and friends as a passionate Patriots fan who was a season ticket holder for many years, a Boston Bruins fan, but most of all he was a "family" guy who was dedicated to his family and the 29 foster children that he lovingly took into his home, according to his family Bill lived an "Oustanding Life" and would be proud of how the book ended.

Bill was the beloved husband of Theresa M. "Terry" (Kennedy) Hanlon, devoted father of Pat Hanlon-Pena & her husband Joe of Kingwood, TX, Kathy McNamara & her husband Tom of Westford, Billy Hanlon & his wife Janice of Billerica, Lori Zambernardi & her husband Bill of Ipswich, Tommy Hanlon & Annie Hanlon both of Wilmington, and 29 foster children, loving Pop-pop of Catherine, Corey, Jonathan, Brett, Emily, William, Andrew, and step-grandchildren Joel and Candace, dear brother of Margaret Bolger of Pennsylvania, Helen Croll of Chicago, and the late Louis Hanlon, Bill is also survived by several nieces & nephews and many dear friends.

Family & friends gathered in the Nichols Funeral Home, Inc., 187 Middlesex Ave. (Rte. 62), Wilmington, on Monday, August 3rd at 10:00 a.m. followed by a Funeral Mass in St. Thomas of Villanova Church, 126 Middlesex Ave., Wilmington at 11:00 a.m. Interment took place in Wildwood Cemetery.

Memorial donations in Bill's name may be mad to Local Heroes, Inc., P. O. Box 536, Wilmington, MA 01887.

William B. Hoey Jr.

Retired from MBTA; US Marine; Red Sox fan

WILMINGTON - Mr. William B. Hoey Jr. of Wilmington formerly of Cambridge passed away suddenly at the Lahey Clinic Medical Center in Burlington, August 3, 2009. He was the beloved husband of Anna T. (DeFrancisco) with whom he shared 55 years of marriage. Born and raised in Cambridge he was the son of the late Mary (Radley) and William B. Hoey Sr.

Mr. Hoey was a retired collector for the MBTA where he worked for thirty-five years. He was also a member of the Carmen's Union Local 589 of Boston. Prior to his work with the MBTA, Mr. Hoey honorably served as a sergeant in the United States Marine Corp from 1948 to 1952 during the Korean War and was a survivor of the battle at the Chosin Reservoir. " The fighting at the Chosin Reservoir was the most violent small unit fighting in the history of American warfare. No other operation in the American book of war quite compares with the show [the battle of the Chosin Reservoir] by the First Marine Division [and attached U.S. Army and British Royal Marines]." General S.L.A. Marshall, Prominent Army Historian of the Twentieth Century.

Mr. Hoey was mostly devoted to his loving family and he enjoyed and cherished time them. He was also an avid fan of the Boston Red Sox and enjoyed gardening and taking walks with his dogs.

In addition to his late parents, Mr. Hoey is predeceased by his brother, the late Robert Hoey. He is survived by his beloved wife Anna, and their children, Jacqueline Mitza and her husband Lawrence of Wilmington, and James Lamoureux of Waltham. He is also survived by his grandchildren, Heidi Mitza and her husband Michael Robertson, Lawrence Mitza, Amy Schena and her husband Christian, Mathew Lamoureux and his wife Jennifer. He is further survived by his great grandchildren, Ethan, Lauren, Rachel and Haley. Funeral services will be held from the Dello Russo Funeral Home, 374 Main St., Wilmington, Thursday, August 6th, at 9 a.m. followed by a funeral mass celebrated in St. Dorothy Church, Main St., Wilmington, at 10 a.m. Relatives and friends are respectfully invited to attend.

Visiting hours at the Dello Russo Funeral Home will be held Wednesday from 4 thru 8. Services will conclude with military honors and burial at Wildwood Cemetery, Wilmington.

As an expression of sympathy memorial contributions may be made in William's memory to Dana/Farber's Jimmy Fund, 10 Brookline Place West, 6th floor, Brookline, MA 02445-7226.

Mary W. Pike

WILMINGTON - Mrs. Mary W. (Wiejkus) Pike, age 90, of Wilmington, died peacefully on Wednesday, July 29, 2009 at Woodbriar of Wilmington.

Born on November 6, 1918, in Cambridge, MA, Mary was the dear daughter of the late Stanley & Anna (Stefanovich) Wiejkus.

Mary was the beloved wife of the late Herbert Pike, mother of Cynthia L. Walking of Wilmington, Jeffrey Pike of Vancouver, WA, and the late Robert Pike, grandmother of Kenneth and Eric Walking, Benjamin, Elizabeth, and Matthew Pike, and great grandchildren Kayla and Tina, sister of the late John Wiejkus, Edward Wiejkus, and Josephine Loss.

At the family's request Funeral Services will be private.

Memorial donations in Mary's name may be made to Woodbriar of Wilmington, Patient Trust Account, 90 West St., Wilmington, MA 01887.

Richard A. Powers

Enjoyed classic western movies, Red Sox, Patriots

WILMINGTON - Mr. Richard A. Powers, age 57, of Wilmington, died unexpectedly, Thursday, July 30, 2009, at the Lahey Clinic in Burlington. Born on August 19, 1951 in Cambridge, MA, Richard was the dear son of John and Gertrude (Chapman) Powers of Brewster formerly of Arlington, MA.

Richard was raised in Arlington and was a graduate of Arlington High School. Richard moved to Wilmington in the late 1970's. Richard will be remembered by family and friends as having a great sense of humor, he loved to laugh and make others laugh, he enjoyed watching classic western movies, the Red Sox and Patriots. He enjoyed cooking, the woods of New Hampshire, camping, relaxing by a warm fire, and snoozing in his hammock by the pool. Most of all Richard will be remembered as a family man who cherished his parents, family, and friends. He will be missed.

Richard is survived by his beloved wife of Janette "Jan" (Ward) Powers, whom he considered his best and closest friend, he was the devoted father of Derek J. Powers of Wilmington, Christine M. Powers of Lowell, and Laurie J. Finne & her husband Kenneth of Wilmington, cherished grandfather of Derek John Powers, Jr. & Garrett Powers who he adored, he was the loving brother of John Powers & his wife Suzanne and Charles Powers & his wife Linda all of Londonderry, NH, son-in-law of Edith (Staples) Narduzzo and Kenneth Ward both of Wilmington. Richard is also survived by several nieces, nephews, and his dear friend Marcia (McGourty) Powers of Arlington.

Visiting hours were held at the Nichols Funeral Home, Inc., 187 Middlesex Ave. (Rte. 62), Wilmington, on Tuesday, August 4th from 4-7 p.m. Immediately followed by a Funeral Service at 7:00 p.m.

Memorial donations in Richard's name may be made to Joslin Diabetes Center, 1 Joslin Place, Boston, MA 02215.

Mass Audubon's Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary Family Programs for August

Family Dusk Paddle—Discovering Wetlands

Friday, August 7, 6:00-8:00 p.m. (rain date: August 14)

For families with children 6 years and older. Bring your family and join a Mass Audubon naturalist for a leisurely paddle in a canoe on the gentle Ipswich River as we learn more about the river and some of its inhabitants. We will paddle through the winding backwaters of the river lined with cattails and other marsh plants, looking for hidden wildlife. Using buckets and strainers, we'll stop and sample the rich aquatic life to learn more about what lives under the water's surface. Basic instruction will be provided, along with all equipment. Participants must be able to swim. A confirmation with what to wear and bring will be sent. Fee: $15/adults, $13/children (discount for Mass Audubon members). Advance registration is required; call 978-887-9264.

Annual Swimsuit Classic 5K Aug. 16

WAKEFIELD - Mark your calendars for August 16 as the annual Swimsuit Classic 5K returns to Lake Quannapowitt in Wakefield. The Mystic Runners Club organizes the event which has fast become a local tradition. The five-kilometer race starts and ends at the Lord Wakefield Hotel on North Ave., Wakefield at 9 a.m. on Sunday, Aug. 16 and circles beautiful Lake Quannapowitt. It is a flat, fast, and safe course, and there is plenty of free parking.

The entry fee is $15 through August 7 and then $18 until race day. Cotton duffle bags will be given to the first 150 entrants. Mix 98.5 will be on hand with free ice cream.

Major sponsorship for the race comes from EPAC Software Technologies.

Online registration is available at the club's website, www.MysticRunners.com. Paper registrations are available at the club's weekly run every Wednesday evening at the Lord Wakefield Hotel, at The Hot Spot Café in Reading, or by emailing swimsuitclassic@gmail.com.

The Mystic Runners Club is a Wakefield-based organization with members from all over the Greater Boston area. The club announced that part of the proceeds is donated to the Wakefield Interfaith Food Pantry.

Wynn Middle School students fundraise for T.H.E. FARM

TEWKSBURY - A group of caring eighth grade students, from the Wynn Middle School in Tewksbury, decided this year to use their "Eight Grade Send-Off Dance" as a platform to raise money for a local charity. They allocated two dollars from the price of each ticket to be used for this purpose. The students sold 250 tickets, raising a total of $500 for their charitable donation.

T.H.E.FARM is pleased to announce that it was chosen as recipient of this generous and much-appreciated contribution. The gift will be used to help support T.H.E. FARM and its therapeutic horseback riding program, which is unique, in that it accommodates all four elements of therapeutic riding: Recreation, Therapy, Sport, and Medicine, and because it has the space to create a much needed competition venue for competitors of all abilities.

Horseback-riding is a well-established therapy for numerous conditions, including autism, learning disabilities, multiple sclerosis, muscular dystrophy, blindness, and cerebral palsy. The exercise of riding improves the rider's balance, flexibility, strength, and control of head, trunk, arms and legs. Learning to ride also provides cognitive and emotional benefits: guiding a horse is an act of communication from rider to horse that develops concentration and precision on the part of the rider. Riding can improve the rider's confidence and self-esteem as he or she learns how to control and work together with such a large and powerful creature as a horse.

Last but not least, horseback riding is fun. It provides not only exercise, but recreation and the company of a kind and beautiful animal.

These generous and thoughtful gifts, and others like it, are extremely important to T.H.E.FARM, which relies significantly on donations from caring individuals, foundations, and corporations to support its programs and to meet operating costs. It is especially gratifying to learn that these caring young students initiated such an important and successful fundraising project. They certainly are a credit to their families, to the Wynn School, and to the town of Tewksbury.

Abundant Life Christian Center hosts movie night

WILMINGTON - Abundant Life Christian Center will be presenting another family friendly movie on its big screen. Charlotte's Web will be shown on August 11 at 7 p.m.

Dakota Fanning stars as Fern in the live action adaptation of Charlotte's Web. Fern and Charlotte, the spider (voiced by Julia Roberts), are the only two living beings who see that Wilbur is a "terrific" and "radiant" pig. When word gets out that Wilbur's days are numbered, it looks like it will take a miracle to save his life. E.B. White's classic story of loyalty, trust and sacrifice is sure to be enjoyed by the entire family!

Everyone is welcome to come and enjoy this delightful film in air conditioned comfort. Admission is free and complimentary refreshments will be served. For more information please contact (978) 658-8584 or ablifechurch.org.

Vassallo graduates from Union College

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. - Michael Vassallo is a 2009 graduate of Union College with a Bachelor of Arts in history. Vassallo is a resident of Wilmington, Mass. and a 2005 graduate of Wilmington High School.

Approximately 500 undergraduates received degrees at the 215th Union College commencement ceremonies June 14, 2009. Paul A. Volcker, the former chairman of the Federal Reserve and head of President Obama's economic recovery advisory panel, was the featured speaker. Volcker, 81, received an honorary doctor of laws degree from Union. The College also awarded an honorary doctor of science degree to Martin L. Perl, winner of the Nobel Prize in physics in 1995.

SPEDWatch gears up for inaugural Walk for Special Education Rights in Wakefield

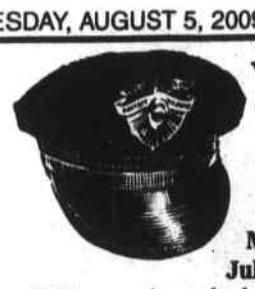

Calling all walkers! SPEDWatch, Inc. is gearing up for its first Walk for Special Education Rights. The Walk, to be held on Saturday, August 29th, is around Lake Quannapowitt in Wakefield, Massachusetts. There is no registration fee and anyone who wants to raise funds for this worthy cause can participate by pre-registering online at www.spedwatchwalk.org, or by calling SPEDWatch at 978-433-5983. Individual walkers as well as teams of walkers are all encouraged to join in.

Check in on Walk day will begin at 9:45 am on the Wakefield Town Common. The Walk itself begins at 10:30 am. Walk day activities include music, complimentary lunch, and children's activities for all ages and abilities.

The Disability Law Center is the lead sponsor for the walk and all funds raised will support the work done by SPEDWatch, Inc., a non-profit, grassroots, parent-driven organization working to secure the educational rights of all Massachusetts schoolchildren with special needs. The laws that guarantee a child's right to appropriate special education services have been in place for over thirty years but are routinely violated by public schools. Between July 2004 and June 2007 the Massachusetts Department of Elementary and Secondary Education (DESE) recorded 3,247 such violations. The U.S. Department of Education has cited Massachusetts 11 times in the past 19 years for failing to fully meet its legal obligations to these children, most recently in June 2009.

The human consequences are staggering. Students with special learning needs are failing in overwhelming numbers despite possessing the same intellectual abilities as their non-disabled peers. DESE has refused to take any action to help these children. SPEDWatch meets this challenge by targeting the root causes of educational discrimination against schoolchildren with disabilities. The group works as a civil rights, social change movement to pressure government to protect the educational rights of these students.

For more information on SPEDWatch or on how you can join the walk or donate, visit the Walk's web site at www.spedwatchwalk.org or call 978-433-5983.

Teri LaBella completes CRM Course

Teri LaBella

WILMINGTON - Teri LaBella of Wilmington Insurance Agency, Inc. has successfully completed Course #2 of the Certified Risk Managers Program held at the Royal Sonesta in Cambridge, MA.

The risk management course attended was one of five parts offered by The National Alliance. After the successful completion of all fives courses covering major areas of the risk management field and passing the five comprehensive examinations, Ms. LaBella will be awarded the CRM designation by The National Alliance for Insurance Education & Research, the nation's foremost provider of professional insurance and education.

Ms. LaBella believes that the insurance profession is best served by those who acquire and maintain a high standard of professionalism by legitimately meeting the continuing education requirements of the program. Having passed her first exam for the CRM designation, she looks forward to hearing the results of her second exam. The CRM courses consist of twenty hours of intensive study in a three day period and the taking and passing of a two and a half hour exam.

Ms. LaBella obtained her CIC designation in 2002 and looks forward to adding the CRM designation to her resume.

As an insurance professional for the last twenty years, Ms. LaBella, with her partner John Doherty, own and operate Wilmington Insurance Agency, Inc. Located on Middlesex Avenue, Wilmington Insurance is a full service agency and represents a number of insurance carriers. She credits John Doherty for the carriers represented by Wilmington Insurance. "His knowledge of the industry and his resolve to represent only highly ranked carriers gives us the opportunity to service our customers in the best possible way," LaBella said. "In today's climate we all want to purchase insurance at the lowest possible price without sacrificing the coverage needed."

Kimberly Gentile named to dean's list

ITHACA, NY - Kimberly Gentile, daughter of Wilmington residents Alan and Nancy Gentile, was named to the Dean's List at Ithaca College's Roy H. Park School of Communications for the spring 2009 term with a GPA of 3.7.

To qualify for this academic honor, students must attain a minimum grade point average of 3.5 and complete a minimum of 15 credit hours, of which at least 12 are graded. A grade of D or F or an incomplete in a course automatically disqualifies a student from the dean's list, regardless of the overall GPA attained that semester.

Coeducational and nonsectarian, Ithaca College is a nationally recognized independent college of some 6,300 undergraduates and 400 graduate students. Located in Ithaca, New York, the college offers more than 100 degree programs.

100 Fordham Road in Wilmington, new home to World Travel Holdings

CresaPartners represents World Travel Holdings in 21 thousand s.f. lease relocation in Wilmington

WILMINGTON - Mitch Jacoby and Shawn McDonough of CresaPartners in Boston—America's largest corporate real estate firm specializing in tenant representation— recently represented World Travel Holdings (formerly National Leisure Group), which is relocating and is leasing 20,810 square feet at 100 Fordham Road in Wilmington, Mass.

Barry Dube of CresaPartners is also providing project management for this assignment, with the project completion and move-in slated for November 2009.

World Travel Holdings, one of the nation's largest leisure travel companies, is re-locating from 100 Sylvan Road in Woburn where they had been for nearly 10 years. The company is taking advantage of favorable real estate market conditions along Route 93 while improving access for employees.

The new office is located in a two-story, 42,392 SF building, which is part of a four-building, 301,932 SF office park.

The landlord, KS Partners, was represented by Christopher Curley of Newmark Knight Frank.

CresaPartners, based in Boston, is North America's largest corporate real estate advisory firm specializing in tenant representation and corporate services, including project management. Worldwide, the firm provides services through more than 125 offices in 35 countries, including more than 50 North American CresaPartners locations. For more information, visit www.cresapartners.com.

Scianatico named President of the Rotary Club of North Reading

READING - Reading Co-operative Bank is very pleased to announce that Joe Scianatico was named President of the Rotary Club of North Reading. Scianatico serves as Assistant Vice President/Branch Manager of Reading Co-operative Bank's North Reading and Wilmington offices.

In this new role, Mr. Scianatico is responsible for running club and board meetings, but most importantly, finding worthy causes, within the community, in which the Rotary club can volunteer their time and funds for all who are in need of assistance.

Joe Scianatico joined Reading Co-operative Bank in 2006 and has since become active in the community in many different organizations including becoming Chairman of the Board of the Friends of the North Reading Council on Aging, Board Member of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, Member of the Reading/North Reading Chamber of Commerce, Member of the Reading Lions Club and most recently joining the Wilmington School Business Partnership Group.

"Reading Co-operative Bank is a community bank, founded on the principle that profit and growth go hand in hand with responsible banking and service to the community. Our success shows that local families and businesses are a sound investment," states Julieann Thurlow, Bank President & CEO.

All deposits at Reading Co-operative Bank are insured in full through the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and Share Insurance Fund. The Bank has received the highest Bauer Financial Five Star rating for the past 71 consecutive quarters and has five full-service banking locations - Reading, North Reading, Woburn and 2 locations in Wilmington; the Bank also offers an educational school branch at the Reading Memorial High School.

August day camp programs at Mass Audubon's Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary

Spaces are still available in a number of one-week day camp programs at Mass Audubon's Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary in Topsfield in August. The sanctuary has offered its unique natural history day camp programs on the North Shore for over 56 years. Theme-based programs are designed to engage children and stimulate their interest in the natural world. All camp sessions listed below meet at the Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary in Topsfield with the exception of Essex Salt Marsh Camp, which meets at the Cox Reservation in Essex, headquarters of the Essex County Greenbelt Association. Our camps are accredited by the American Camping Association. For a free brochure or more information, call 978-887-9264 or email ipswichriver@massaudubon.org. Our camp brochure can also be downloaded from our website at www.massaudubon.org/ipswichriver.

Listed by age:

Young Naturalists Living on Lunch

August 10-14, 9:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m., for ages 5 and 6.

Animals have important relationships with the plants among which they live and depend upon for food. Campers will search for animals and link their dependence on plants that grow on the sanctuary. Some exciting observations might include monarch butterfly caterpillars munching on milkweed, woodchucks foraging on clover in the field, bullfrogs hunting from lily pads, or woodpeckers pecking into trees searching for insects. FEE: $343 ($285/Mass Audubon members).

Essex Salt Marsh Camp

August 10-14, 9:00 a.m.-2:30 p.m., for children ages 7-10

Campers will discover the amazing coastal creatures that live in a salt marsh in this one-week camp. Explore river, salt marsh, and upland habitats, participate in sensory awareness activities, play games, create art, and learn with special guest naturalist. Meets at Essex County Greenbelt Association's Cox Reservation in Essex. A program highlight is a day spent exploring Choate Island, owned by The Trustees of Reservations. FEE: $258 ($200/Mass Audubon members).

Creating Art In Nature

for ages 9-11.

An artist-educator and a naturalist co-teach these classes for young people who would like to connect their interests in art and nature. FEE PER WEEK: $303 ($245/Mass Audubon members).

Creating Art in Nature—Natural Landscape Art Week

August 10-14, 9:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m.

Learn how to use various mediums such as charcoal and watercolors to create textured drawings of woodlands, fields, and wetland scenes.

Creating Art in Nature-Animal Art Week

August 17-21, 9:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m.

Nature and art come together as campers observe animals of the sanctuary and then create art projects based on their observations. Design animal puppets with papier-mâché, learn how to illustrate feather texture as you paint a favorite bird, and much more.

Canoe Adventurers

for children ages 12-14.

Campers build on their canoeing and kayaking skills in these programs. Participants must have some previous canoe experience.

Further River Adventures

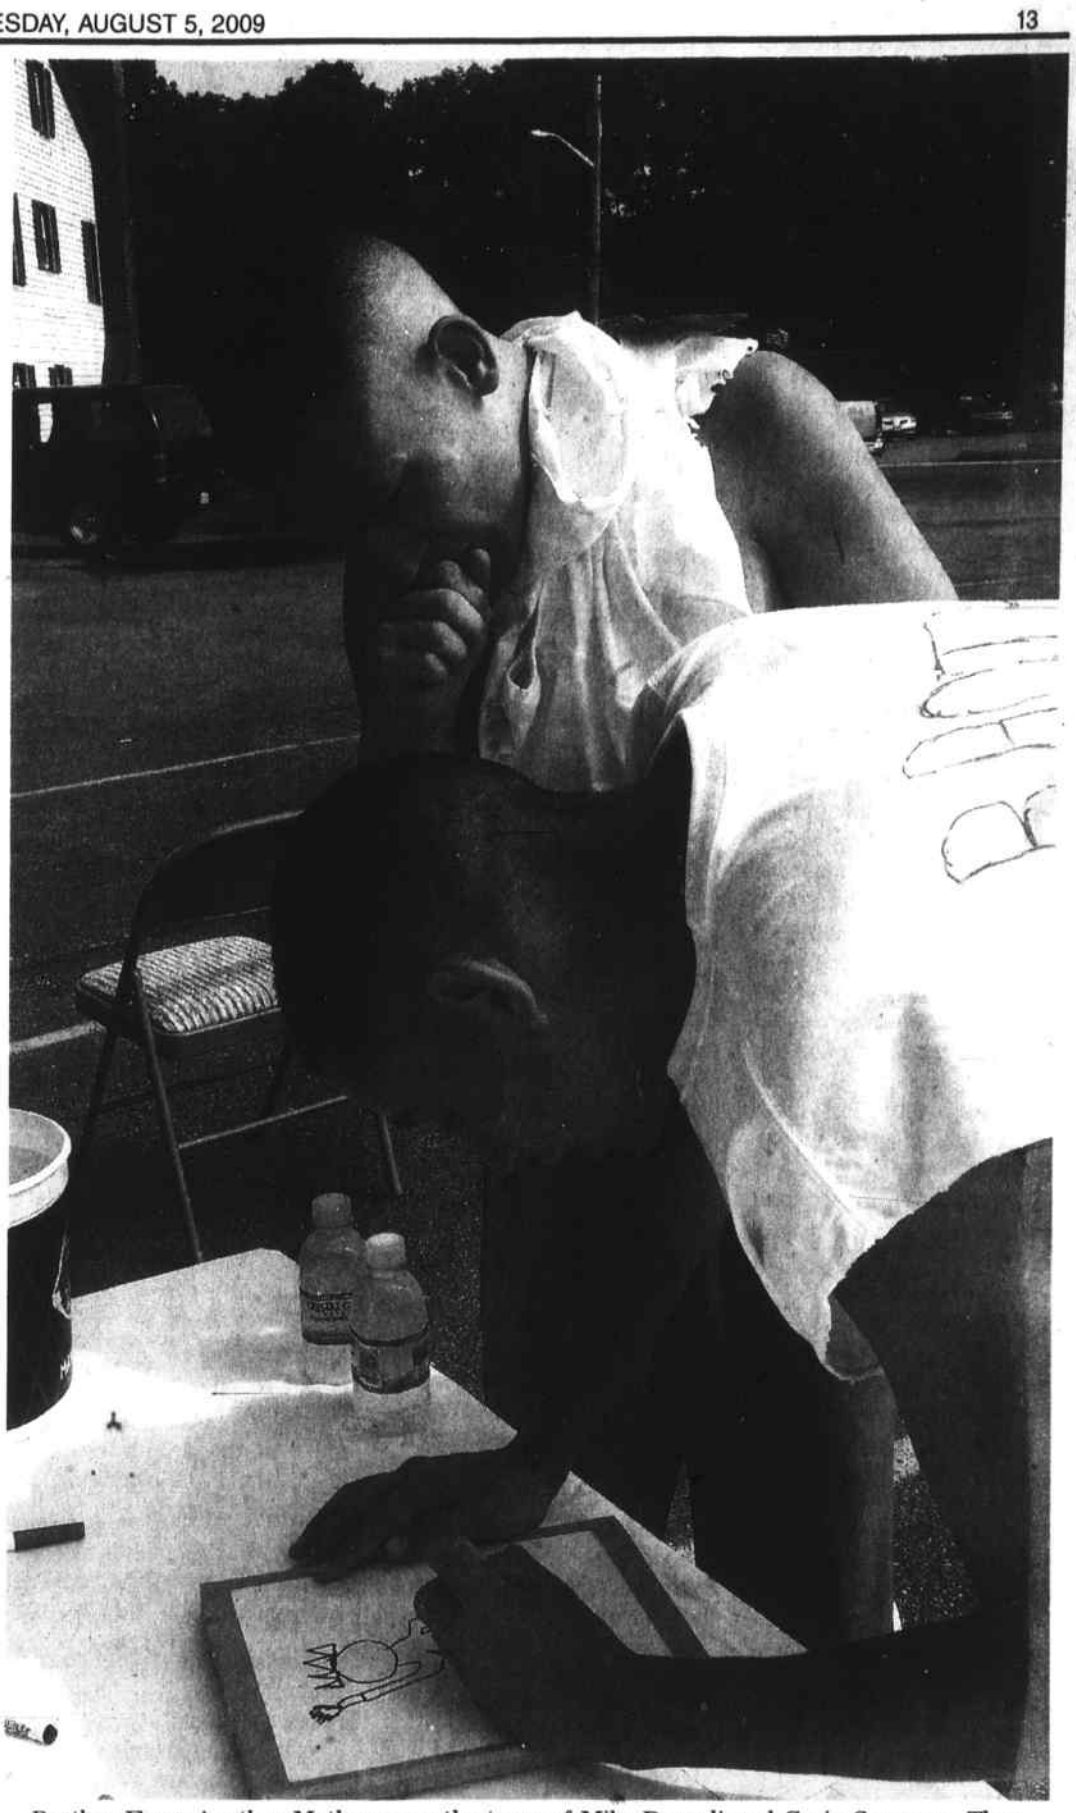

August 10-14, 9:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m. (plus an overnight)

Campers will explore the Ipswich River and discover the frogs, turtles, herons, and other animals that inhabit the river, shore, and islands. We'll also paddle a saltwater creek, and tent overnight on Perkins Island. FEE: $378 ($320/Mass Audubon members).

Canoe and Kayak Adventures

August 17-21, 9:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m. (plus an overnight at Camp Wildwood)

Campers will increase their canoeing skills, paddle new sections of the Ipswich River, learn about the animal and plant life in and around the river, and tackle team-building challenges. The program includes two days at Wildwood, Mass Audubon's residential camp on Hubbard Pond in Rindge, NH, where we will swim, kayak, hike and explore forest and wetlands, and try our hand on the popular high ropes course. FEE: $418 ($360/Mass Audubon members).

Brother From Another Mother were the team of Mike Dascoli and Craig Semenza. They stopped for a pictionary challenge along the route of Murph's Fun Run last week in Tewksbury. A crew was busy on last week clearing debris from the Swain School in Wilmington. While several men tossed old desks and chairs out the old fire escape exit, an excavator picked it up and and put it into a waiting truck. Next to go will be the asbestos. That may take a couple of weeks, then the old school will be torn down. Stu Neilson photo

Reading's first annual Fall Street Faire planned for September 13

READING - The Town of Reading is planning a Fall Street Faire to celebrate the completion of the downtown improvements and rededication of the new flag pole on Sunday, September 13, 2009 from noon - 6 pm. Festivities being planned will include live entertainment for all and family-friendly activities such as moon-bouncers, face painting, street performers, and arts and crafts. There will also be a classic car show along with retail and food vendor tents and much more. The Faire will take place in and around Reading's Town Common with Haven Street being closed and used for vendor tents and entertainment. Vendor booths will line the streets selling all kinds of wares and delicious food.

"We have been working with the Reading-North Reading Chamber of Commerce response from local businesses and organizations has been huge," said Sheila Clarke, member of Reading's Economic Development Committee and Fall Street Faire Planning Committee. "All kinds of businesses and activities will be represented at the Faire, so there will be something for everyone! We hope to build on its success and make it an annual event."

The Faire, which is expected to draw large crowds, will act as the official grand opening of the newly restored downtown. More information will made available as the event nears. Applications to participate as a retail or food vendor can be found on the town's web site www.readingma.gov . Any questions regarding the Faire can be directed to Sheila Clarke at email smwclarke@verizon.net or Michele Williams at email michelerwilliams@comcast.net.

A Picnic in the Park and beyond...

Picnic in the park: The Friends, Staff and Trustees of the Tewksbury Public Library cordially invite you to join us on Friday, August 21st for a picnic on the library grounds to celebrate Tewksbury's 275th birthday. We'll provide the fun; all you need to bring is your picnic and a blanket to sit on. Thanks to the generosity of the Friends of the Tewksbury Library our guests that day will enjoy fife and drum music by David Vose, balloon animals and face painting by Violet the Clown and colonial games with volunteers from the historical society. This fun family event is free and open to the public, so please make plans to join us that afternoon. For news about other events honoring the 275th anniversary of the town please visit the website for the 275th Anniversary Committee: www.tewksbury275.com. We are proud to be part of this year-long celebration of Tewksbury's history.

Book discussion groups the Tewksbury Library offers two different book groups for those readers that enjoy discussing books and discovering new authors. These groups are open to the public and don't require any registration or commitment: please feel free to join us for any of the discussions that interest you.

Our newest book group discusses mysteries and crime fiction: over the summer we have been reading British mysteries and enjoying tea and scones with the library director while we converse about the book. The mystery for this month is "The Beekeeper's Apprentice" by Laurie King, a novel about an aging Sherlock Holmes and his very surprising new assistant! Copies of the book are available now for you to borrow from the library; we will discuss the book at our next meeting on Thursday, August 20th at 10:15. Check the library's website for an updated list of titles for the fall.

Our monthly general fiction book group has been meeting for years, led by library staff members Helen Mooney and Joanne Toppin. This group offers two meeting times each month: a Tuesday evening and a Thursday morning. Beginning on September 1st you can grab your copy of "Hold Tight" by Harlan Coben at the library and plan to join us at our next meeting on September 22nd at 6:30 or September 24th at 10:15. Pick up a brochure at the front desk for a list of the whole year's books.

Chess for everyone! Thanks to our steadfast volunteers from the Henry family our chess club continues to meet and play on the third Tuesday of every month. This group welcomes players of all ages and ability, even players still learning the basics of the game. There is no registration required for this group, just stop in for the evening and have fun playing and learning chess. The next chess night is Tuesday, August 21st at 6:30 PM.

For more information about these programs or any library information please visit us online at www.tewksburypl.org or give us a call at 978-640-4490.

Children and families enjoy winter fun in July

READING - On Saturday, July 25, the Burbank YMCA hosted their first Winter Carnival in July. The carnival was held at the Burbank Ice Arena on Symonds Way in Reading. Over 200 people came out to the ice rink for a break from the heat and to enjoy a variety of activities.

Children and families spent the evening ice skating, making snow globes and making snowmen form the Zamboni snow. Some children also got a head start on holiday gifts by decorating ornaments.

"The Winter Carnival was a great collaboration with the Burbank Ice Arena and the Burbank YMCA," said Diana Ganz, Sr. Member Experience Director at the Burbank YMCA. "We hope that we can work together on the event again next year."

The Winter Carnival is just one of many exciting special events hosted by the Burbank YMCA throughout the year. For more information about special events at the Burbank YMCA call 781-944-9622 or visit www.ymcaboston.org/burbank

Libraries need state funding

Last year alone Massachusetts had more than 100,000 kids involved in summer reading through region supported libraries, according to Celeste Bruno, spokesperson for the Massachusetts Board of Library Commissioners. According to Tewksbury Public Library Director Jen Hinderer, last year 1,000 kids joined the summer reading program. This year enrollment exceeded 1,000, and so far 1,400 kids have partaken of some kind of event or service at the library this summer.

Tewksbury and Wilmington are both part of the Northeast Regional Library System.

Wilmington Memorial Library Director Christina Stewart is concerned about service impacts should the Governor veto either the supplemental budget altogether or the line item for libraries.

"The regions provide the infrastructure, the backbone, so that the interlibrary loan works," said Stewart adding that the regions provide important information through the funding of databases and important training for staff. "Interlibrary loan statistics have really gone up, into the millions now. Books are transported from library to library. If you want a book in Springfield, it can be delivered to Wilmington," said Stewart.

In Tewksbury last year more than 24,000 books were delivered as part of the interlibrary loan program, according to Hinderer.

Both Wilmington and Tewksbury utilized consultant services from the region to work on their libraries' long range plans, and at no cost to the town.

Stewart cautions that cutting the regions' budgets could result in a loss of database access, some of which provide very useful up-to-date information on job hunting, consumer, and school and college information.

Hinderer concurred and added that cuts to the regions, averaging 10 to 15 percent, would result in fewer book deliveries per week, perhaps three days a week instead of five, as well as eliminating certain categories of materials that may be delivered at all.

"People love our delivery, they can get a book from anywhere in the state. It's what allows our libraries to be very strong. Its kind of an equalizer; you can live in any neighborhood anywhere in the state and have access to the materials in any other neighborhood," said Bruno.

Signing the supplemental budget will fund the regional library system at the same level as in fiscal year 2000, says Bruno. But if Patrick vetoes the funding, regional budgets will sink to a level not seen in 12 years.

Both Hinderer and Stewart say library usage in their towns has increased dramatically. In Tewksbury Internet usage represents the greatest single increase usage, up 60 percent from June 2008 to June 2009.

"With the downturn in the economy we need to keep our circulation, infrastructure, and computers up so that we can continue to provide services," said Stewart. "We need people to start thinking, interlibrary loan won't come everyday. There's a cost to that, getting that book here. If the regions get cut that could be very much impacted."

ments in response, and WERC responded to those. The back and forth nature of capturing the interest of all stakeholders is inherent in the process.

In a public statement via email on behalf of WERC, Suzanne Sullivan wrote, "We wish to thank Jim DiLorenzo and the EPA for working with WERC and CEI (Cambridge Environmental Inc., consultants to WERC) on this stage of the process. We all are obviously not going to agree on all aspects of this site/project. That being said, to date, Mr. DiLorenzo has been respectful, up-front, and responsive."

GeoInsight provided written comments to the EPA on the draft RI/FS work plan on July 6 and received the EPA's response on July 14, said Wilmington's Assistant Town Manager, Jeff Hull.

The final work plan must be submitted to the EPA by August 17 and satisfy pending conditions within the approval letter. Further, said Hull, the EPA expects Olin to begin fieldwork for the remedial investigation also by mid-August, or thirty days from the date of the letter.

The EPA's conditional approval includes five conditions and more than twelve pages of comments. The conditions specifically address financial assurance, well construction, slurry wall testing, the North Pond area, and the right to request additional samples and testing.

The EPA gave Olin thirty days, or to mid-August, to submit a cost estimate for the completion of all activities within the Final RI/FS Work Plan. That estimate will become the basis upon which Olin and other Respondents create financial security for the benefit of the EPA.

EPA also requires an addendum to the RI/FS Work Plan regarding well construction details in advance of preparations to install new monitoring wells, as well as an addendum due within two months for the implementation and evaluation of slurry wall testing.

Another condition expresses some frustration with the North Pond Area of the site.

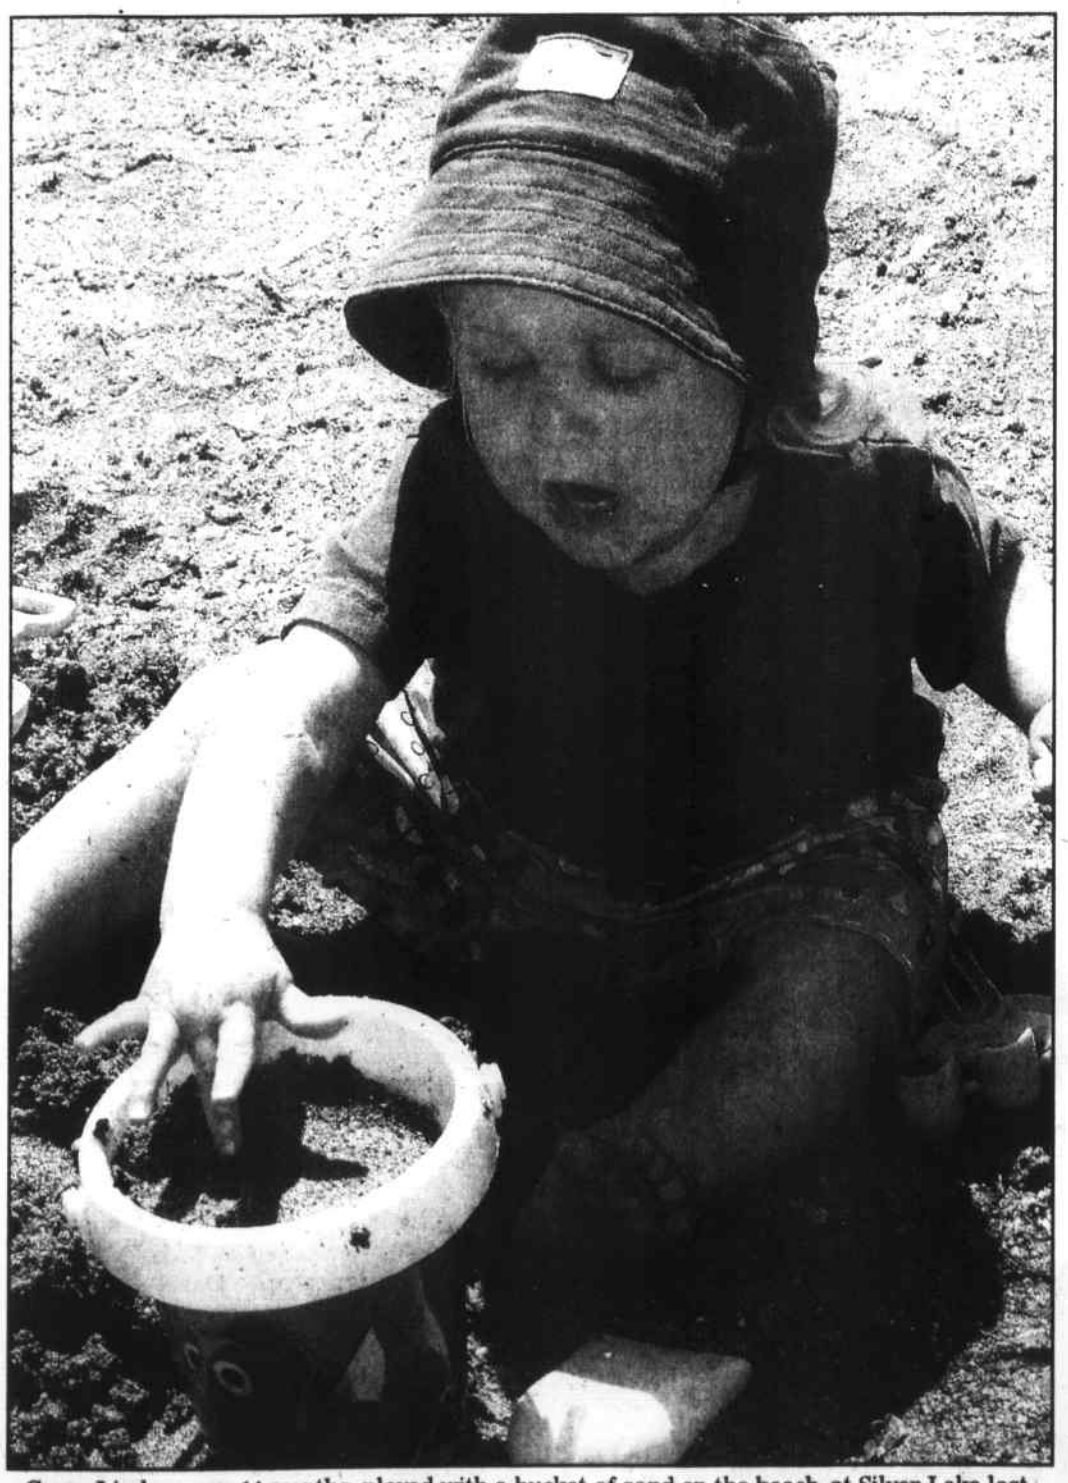

"Despite continuous requests by EPA to adequately characterize the North Pond area, the Draft Work Plan does not propose any site characterization to analysis," writes DiLorenzo, who goes on to state that aerial photography confirms the area was linked to contaminated ditches and a sediment sample "confirms the presence of several site-related compounds."

The EPA calls for more work characterizing the North Pond site and reserves the right to request additional samples and analysis at the site.

Hull told the Crier that Wilmington Town Manager Michael Caira is planning to have GeoInsight attend a Board of Selectmen meeting in September.

Chemical manufacturing began in 1953 at the Olin property, located at 51 Eames Street in Wilmington. The facility produced specialized chemicals for the rubber and plastics industry including, blowing agents, stabilizers, antioxidants. Prior to 1970, chemicals were discharged into several unlined central pits and ponds in the property. Contaminants found in the groundwater at the site include ammonia, chloride, sodium, sulfate, chromium, and N-nitrosodimethylamine (NDMA). These chemicals were also present in several of Wilmington's municipal drinking water wells at Maple Meadow Brook. In 2003, these wells were taken out of service. With significant impacts to town drinking water supplies, the town of Wilmington retained the consulting firm of GeoInsight, Inc., who will continue to oversee Superfund activities.

The 53- acre Olin Chemical Superfund site was listed on the National Priorities list in April 2006. In June 2007 the EPA reached a voluntary settlement agreement with Olin Corporation, American Biltrite Inc, and Stepan Company.

Fun for all at Charity Auction

installing handicap ramps in a home, heating fuel assistance, and even renting medical equipment so a baby could come home from the hospital.

Though created in 1945, this will be the first live auction for the WCF. Denise Ryan, owner of the Ryan Auction Company, will host the auction at her Middlesex Avenue facility (behind the Registry of Motor Vehicles), which she "generously" donated to the cause, says Searfoss.

"It is one of the organizations that I'm really happy to be involved in because I'm giving back to the community and helping people in need," said Searfoss, a member since the 1970s. "It's a small board - not that many of us - and we figure if it [the auction] works out well and we get the support from the community, it may be an ongoing thing."

The organization is funded entirely through donations from the community - no state or federal funding aids the program - exemplifying the motto "People helping People."

The auction is slated to begin at 1:00 p.m. with a public viewing of all items beginning at 11:00 a.m.

"There will be stuff for every age and gender. Attend and bid; lots of bargains to be made," says Searfoss. "It's a good time to start Christmas shopping early."

"You can't have a charity auction without donations from the community," says a statement form the organization. "We are currently accepting various items for the auction including gift certificates for goods or services. Certificates for dinner, gasoline, beautician and spa services, golf, sporting events, theater, musical events, frequent flyer miles, time-shares, travel or unique attractions are great gift ideas. Businesses donating an item will receive substantial visibility at the event."

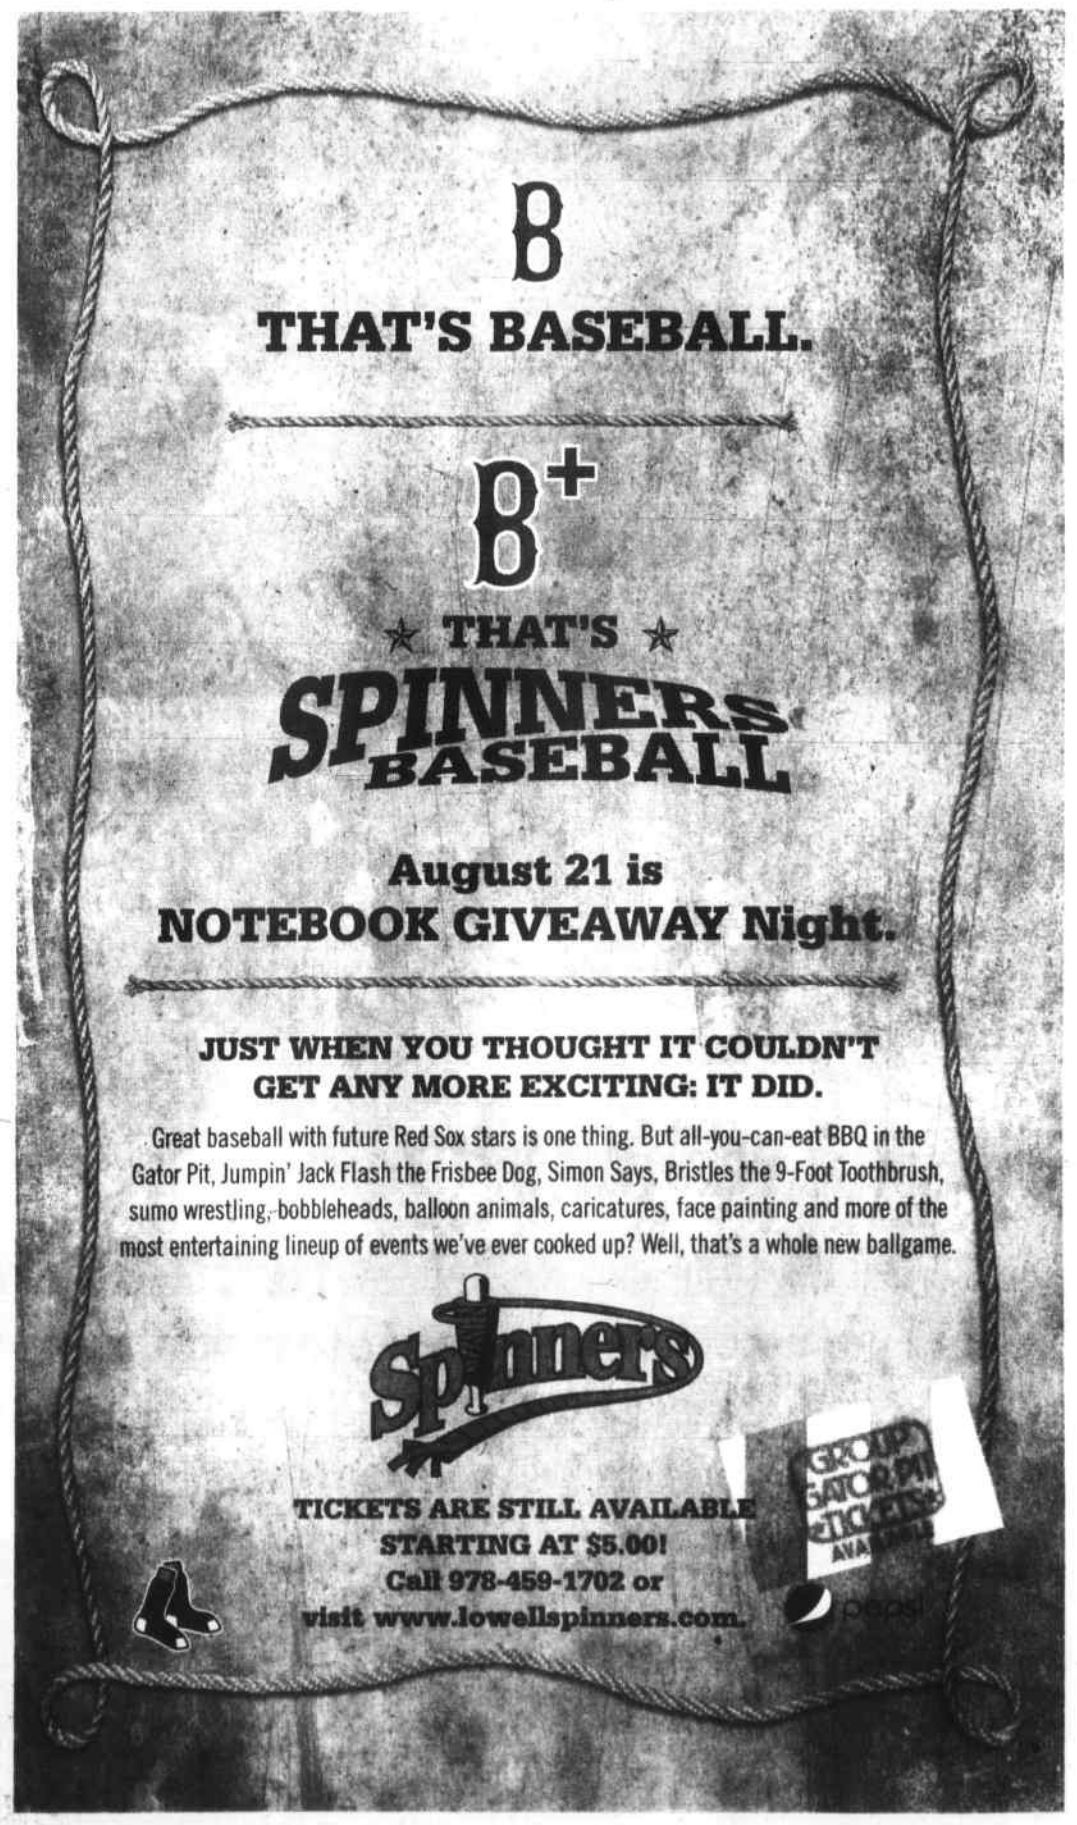

Like the show Cash in the Attic, you never know what you might have that could bring value, reminds Searfoss. She says they are looking for furniture, rugs, lamps, and so forth. Contribution forms are available online at the Ryan Auction Company and on the WCF website (http://commfund.org) as well as various locations around town. Donors are asked to send contributions by return mail if possible or drop off items at the Ryan Auction Company, Monday evenings between 4:00 p.m. and 7:00 p.m. at 355 Middlesex Avenue, Unit 11.

For more information tune into local cable show Where's Wilmington, slated to air on WCTV next week, featuring an interview with Searfoss and other Wilmington Community Fund members.

Big hearts, tiny tots

Pagliuca known as Big Joe. "The kids loved him," Denise Bresnahan, supervisor the five-year-old class, said.

Lorraine Spada School of Dance, located on Middlesex Ave. in Wilmington, volunteered to come in and put on a show for the children. "They invited the kids to come up and showed them how to dance," Bresnahan said.

Also, on a pajama-themed day, Ginger Fisher, a parent of one of the children, volunteered to come in and teach the children yoga.

Steve Nugent's Karate Institute of Burlington provided an exhibition, and the outreach program of Drumland Farm, located in Lincoln, paid a visit to Tiny Tots with animals for the children to play with.

On July 8, for the first session, and July 22, for the second session, Tiny Tots took a field trip to the Children's Discovery Museum in Acton, Massachusetts. At the museum, the children were divided into groups with the four-year-olds visiting the Friends building and the five-year-olds through seven-year-olds visiting the Science play building.

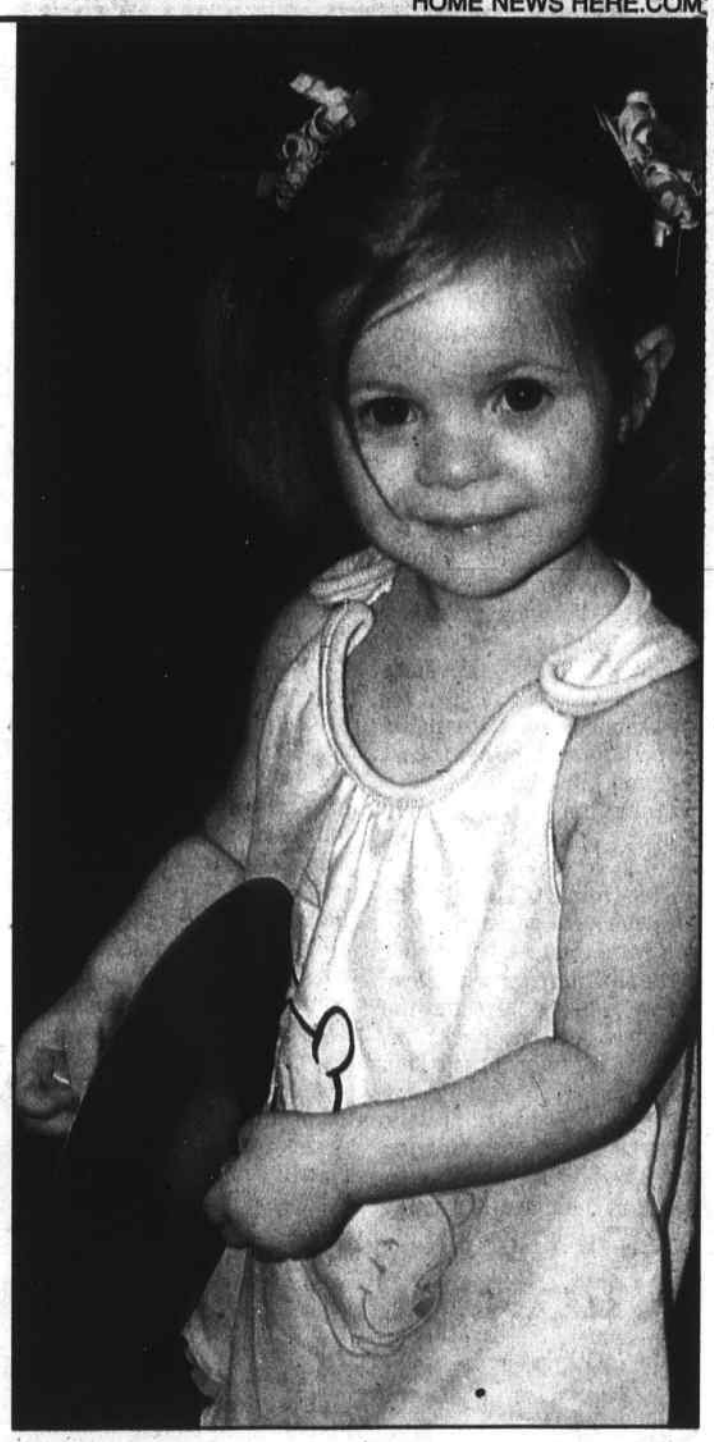

In the Friend building, the four-year-olds were able to play in several different types of rooms such as a bubble room, train room and a kitchen. Then, the five-through seven-year-olds were able to do lots of hands-on activities in the Science building, such as making music, learning about light, shadows and clouds.

An important aspect that allows the program to run smoothly is the people who volunteer to help out each day. "With the number of children that sign up for the program we wouldn't be able to do it without the volunteers," Bresnahan said. This year, Tiny Tots had 48 teenagers, ranging from seventh grade to high school, volunteer their time for a total of 2,000 hours throughout the summer.

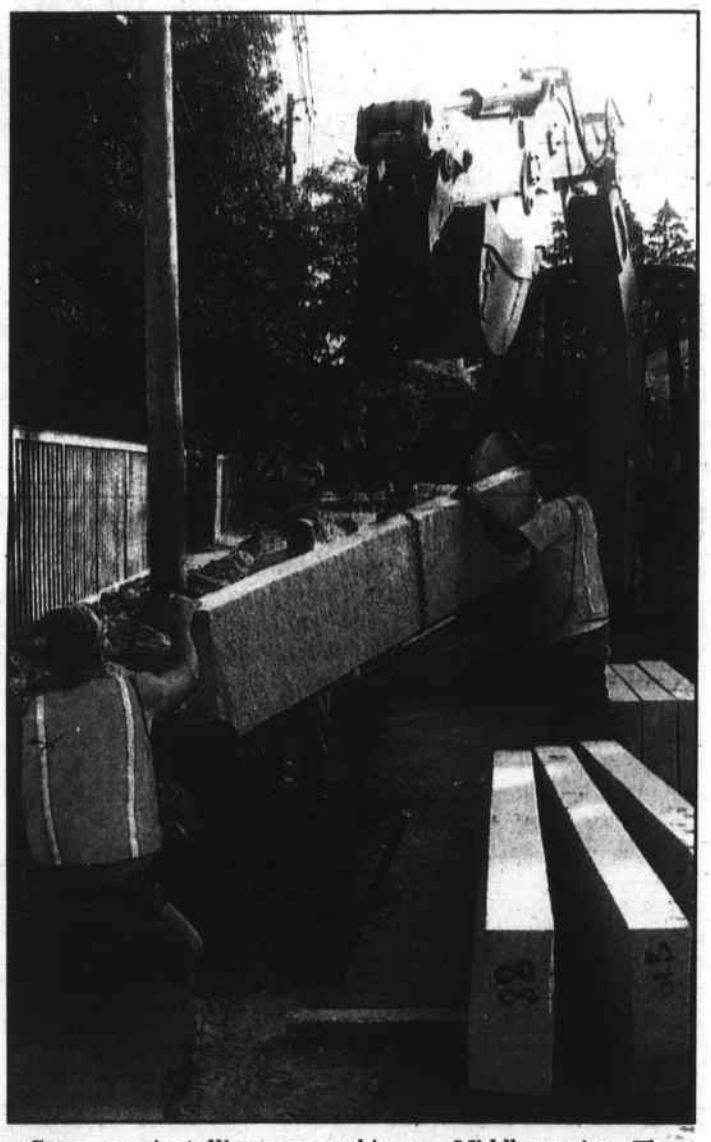

"It was just amazing, every day there would be 20 to 30 teenagers showing up at nine in the morning," Bresnahan said. "The little ones really loved seeing the teenagers that were there. Sometimes a little one would ask where someone is. The children and teenagers get attached to each other."

"My experience at Tiny tots was rewarding because of the interaction with the children. Little kids are a lot of fun, and since I don't have any younger siblings I enjoyed spending time with them," Brooks Carter, a volunteer, said.

"This was my second year volunteering at Tiny Tots and it was just as enjoyable as the first. I know every day at Tiny Tots will be a good one because the children are fun, well-behaved, and I love working with them," Cole Carter, a volunteer, said. "The directors do an excellent job scheduling a variety of activities that make the program interesting. I continue working at Tiny Tots because the Staff and children provide an environment that I can thrive in. It is an upbeat place where volunteering is fun. Since I want to be a teacher some day, it was the perfect summer experience for me."

Local residents graduate from Regis College

WESTON - On Sunday, May 17, 2009, Regis College graduated 479 students, the largest single graduating class in its history. Mary Richardson, co-anchor of Chronicle on WCVB-TV, Channel 5, one of the region's leading broadcast journalists for over three decades, was the commencement speaker. This was the 79th graduation class for Regis, which was founded 82 years ago by the Sisters of Saint Joseph of Boston.

"Mary Richardson has given so much to us all in greater Boston," Dr. Mary Jane England, President of Regis, commented. "We live in difficult times and more than ever need media communicators who can explain, inform and interpret at the highest level. Her professional standards, integrity, and commitment to civic and charitable endeavors are a model for our students and for the larger community."

Local students, Doreen Barker, Anete Gibson and Dawn Sheehan of Tewksbury received their Associates degree. Debra Cremens of Wilmington received her Associates degree. Athanasia Giannakas of Wilmington received her Bachelor of Science degree.

Local students graduate from Curry College

Bill Campbell completes Pan Mass Challenge

An emotional ride he will never forget

By BECCA QUIGLEY
Sports Correspondent

Bill Campbell had one phenomenal weekend participating in the 2009 Pan-Mass Challenge, a bike ride as well as a major cancer fundraiser for the Dana Farber Institute.

"It was one of the most emotional experiences I have ever had," he said.

Throughout his lifetime, Campbell, 66, has been affected by cancer in more ways than one. He has lost several loved ones to the illness, such as his grandmother, father, mother, younger brother, first cousin, and best friend. He also suffered from a type of skin cancer known as melanoma; he was faced with the diagnosis and surgeries 20 years ago. Only recently did he find out that his sister Mary had been diagnosed with cancer as well.

Aside from being personally affected by cancer, Campbell often sees other families struggling through the same problems, as he is a cancer researcher for a pharmaceutical company in Massachusetts.

"[Through the job] I understand and appreciate the efforts of every scientist and physician who endeavors to make a different in the lives of patients," Campbell explains in his cover letter that is posted on his PMC website. "I have seen success and tragedy- both personally and professionally. It is what makes me passionate about this work."

Being touched by cancer in a number of ways, Campbell decided to participate in the one-day ride for his first time, and with it came his first attempt at individually fundraising. He was already accustomed to participating in other cancer fundraisers, such as short running races for the Multiple Myeloma Foundation and the Leukemia Society. He was also involved in the Light the Night Walk, which raised money for leukemia and lymphoma.

"I have taken part in other fundraising events, but nothing like this, however," he said. "The Pan-Mass Challenge was the biggest and best organized fundraiser in which I have been able to participate."

Campbell first heard about the Pan-Mass Challenge from a good friend who has been doing the ride for eight years.

"It's a small thing that an individual can do, but collectively the PMC riders make a tremendous contribution to the challenge of cancer research," he also stated in his cover letter.

Campbell said that the fundraising aspect of the PMC turned out to be easier than he had expected. To raise money, he used just some of the fundraising tools created by the Pan-Mass Challenge, the most successful one for him being the online method, where donations were made directly from his profile on the PMC website.

He initially set a goal to raise at least $1,000 dollars for the cause; currently he has raised a total of $1,608, significantly exceeding his goal.

"I will definitely try doing the Pan-Mass Challenge again next year. Except next year, I plan on raising a lot more money; I want to at least double the amount I have achieved this year," he stated.

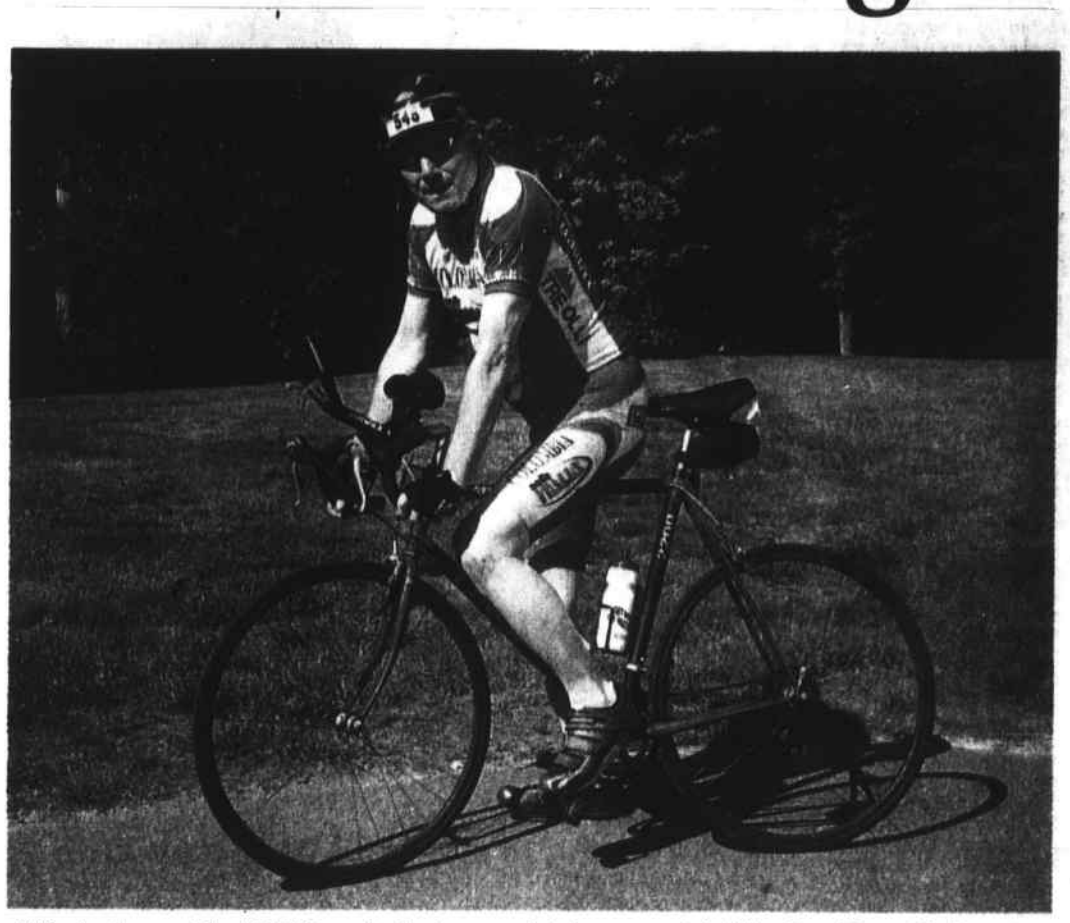

Because he had not participated in any long-distance bike rides for many years, Campbell got himself into regular training each week leading up to the event. He went on outdoor rides about twice a week, each ride averaging around 15 to 25 miles.

For the actual PMC, Campbell rode the Wellesley Route, which was classified as a one-day route and took place on the second day of the event: Sunday, August 2nd. The route was approximately 47 miles long. Campbell began riding at around 7:30 a.m. and crossed the finish line at around 10:30 a.m., completing the ride in just over three hours.

"I didn't have a particular goal I set for a time," he said. "I just wanted to finish with dignity."

Next year, however, he aspires to ride the full, two-day route from Sturbridge to Provincetown.

"Although I did the ride on my own, sometimes I would pull up alongside other riders or vice versa, and we would chat for a few minutes. Then either they moved on or I moved on. Everybody had a story, and though most stories varied, everyone was riding to make whatever contribution they could to cancer research," he said.

Wilmington resident Bill Campbell, above and below, completed the Pan Mass Challenge bike ride this past week, raising well over 1,000 dollars. (courtesy photos).

Perhaps the most overwhelming part of the Pan-Mass Challenge for Campbell as a whole, however, was the atmosphere in which he was riding.

"You just can't imagine the hundreds and hundreds of people that were lined along the path cheering you along and thanking you. When you arrive at the finish line, there's a tremendous group of people with lots of cheering and music.

"Overall, it was just a very emotional experience I will never forget."

Northeast Baseball Playoffs

Tewksbury sends Wilmington packing

By MIKE GIANNATTASIO
Sports Correspondent

After losing 15-0 in game two of their best-of-three-series, Tewksbury struck back with an 8-0 victory over Wilmington on Sunday in Northeast League Baseball playoff action.

The win advanced Tewksbury to the Northeast League finals, where they are currently playing Dracut in a best-of-three series.

One of the key factors as to why Tewksbury won the Northeast League semifinals is because of their ace pitcher Rob McVey, who pitched a complete game on Sunday, allowing only six hits and striking out 13 Wilmington batters.

Tewksbury got their offense started in the second inning after Mike Chartier doubled and scored from third on a botched pick-up attempt at first-base.

Chris Andella started the third inning off with a single and Sean Teel followed with a walk. Manny Cabral was the next batter and he was hit by a pitch to load the bases.

Tyler Bulger took advantage of the runners in scoring position as he smacked a single to right field, scoring Cabral.

Tewksbury would add a couple more runs in the inning to take a 4-0 lead, including a run scored by Ryan White after an RBI single by Chartier.

Andella added more runs for the Tewksbury offense in the fifth inning as he drove in three with a double to center field. Steve Feldhouse, Earl Malarky, and McVey all reached base in the inning and scored on Andella's hit.

Prior to the double by Andella, Andy Lee began the inning with a single and eventually scored, and the 8-0 lead after five innings was more than enough for McVey.

On July 29th, Wilmington got plenty of runs and their pitching was able to shut down the Tewksbury offense as they easily won game the second game of the series, 15-0.

Wilmington scored 9 of their 15 total runs in the second inning, after 14 batters went to the plate. Brett Meuse, Steve Della Pella, and Dave Mello each singled to load the bases. Andy Owens followed with a walk and Chris Fissore drove in Owens with a single.

Nick Boutoures, Evan Butters, and Jeff Kannally would all walk later in the inning and they would all eventually score, putting Wilmington ahead 10-0 after only two innings.

Jeff Kannally and Sean Hanley would lead the Wilmington offense in the fourth inning after they each singled and scored.

Butters pitched five innings for Wilmington, allowing only four hits and striking out four.

The game was called due to darkness with two outs in the bottom of the fifth.

Tewksbury lost to Dracut 14-3 in the first game of the Northeast League finals on Monday. The contest was played at Tewksbury Memorial High School's Strong Field.

With the loss, Tewksbury fell to 14-4 overall this season. Dracut, currently 15-2 overall, shared the league's North Division regular season with Tewksbury this season, but Tewksbury was able to get the top playoff seed after edging out Dracut 7-3 in their only regular season matchup.

Tewksbury hopes to even the series on Wednesday with game two being played at Dracut High School. The results of this game were not known as of presstime. Game three, if necessary, is scheduled for Friday at Tewksbury. Both games start at 5:45.

Spinners offering complimentary valet parking for handicap fans

The Lowell Spinners, Class-A Affiliate of the Boston Red Sox, announced today a partnership with Saints Medical to provide complimentary handicapped parking for each Sunday home game at LeLacheur Park during the 2009 season, beginning August 9 and continuing Aug. 23 and 30.

With the increasing level of heat and the challenges associated with handicap parking in the facilities around the park, the program was a logical step for the organization, which prides itself on customer service.

Fans wishing to take part in the program will be taken care of on a first-come, first-serve basis. The first 50 fans with registered handicap tags can pull up in front of the main entrance to LeLacheur Park, just forward of the Giant Spinners T-Shirt, where a representative will meet you to take your car, which will be parked in the IPI lot directly across the street.

When you are ready to leave, your car will be brought again to the front of the stadium to complete your Spinners game experience.

Local residents needed to drive cancer patients to and from treatment

The American Cancer Society is in great need of Road to Recovery volunteers to drive local cancer patients to and from their chemotherapy and/or radiation treatments. An integral part of treating cancer successfully is making sure cancer patients receive their treatments, but many find making transportation arrangements is a challenge. The American Cancer Society provided more than 19,000 rides to cancer patients in New England last year, but needs new volunteer drivers to keep up with the demand for transportation.

Make a difference in the fight against cancer by becoming a volunteer driver for the American Cancer Society's Road to Recovery. Drivers use their own vehicle to drive patients to and from their treatments. The schedule for volunteers is flexible, treatment appointments take place weekdays, primarily during business hours. If you or someone you know is interested in becoming a volunteer driver for Road to Recovery, please contact your American Cancer Society at 1-800-227-2345 or visit www.cancer.org.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR TIER I PERMIT EXTENSION
Naphthalene Site
365 East Street
Tewksbury
DEP RTN 3-20216
Tier IC Permit
W02531

A release of oil and/or hazardous materials has occurred at this location, which is a disposal site as defined by M.G.L. c. 21E, and the Massachusetts Contingency Plan, 310 CMR 40.0000. On July 16, 2002, the Department of Environmental Protection (Mass DEP) issued a Tier IC Permit for Comprehensive Response Actions at the site. On August 5, 2009 , Tewksbury Hospital intends to file an Application for a Tier IC Permit Extension with Mass DEP pursuant to 310 CMR 40.0703 and 40.0706. This Application will seek to extend the permit for this site from July 16, 2009 to July 16, 2011 based upon the following rationale:

- Additional comprehensive response actions are necessary to address residual levels of oil and/or hazardous materials at the Site via the implementation of a Phase IV Remedy Implementation Plan previously submitted to the MassDEP.
- The scheduling and completion of Phase IV activities is subject to State funding which until recently has not been available for this Site.
- Following the completion of Phase IV activities, monitoring activities at the Site will need to be conducted for at least two quarters to evaluate the effectiveness of the remedial measures taken.

Anyone interested in reviewing the Application for a Tier I Permit Extension should contact Dennis P. Giustra, P.E., LSP at Pennoni Associates Inc., 100 Burtt Road, Suite 120, Andover, MA 01810, Tel. (978)749-9929 to request a copy of the Application. Written comments related to this Application must be submitted within 20 days of the publication of this notice to: (1) MassDEP, Northeast Regional Office, 205B Lowell Street, Wilmington, MA 01887 by mail or by hand delivery during normal business hours; and (2) Pennoni Associates Inc. 100 Burtt Road, Suite 120, Andover, MA 01810. Failure to provide written comments as set forth herein may affect your right, if any, to challenge MassDEP's permit decision.
The Application and the disposal site file can be reviewed at MassDEP, Northeast Regional Office, 205B Lowell Street, Wilmington, MA 01887, Tel. (978)694-3200.
Additional public involvement opportunities are available under 310 CMR 40.1403(9) and 310 CMR 40.1404.

Wilmington U14 Softball team heats up on the diamond

Five Wilmington girls proudly represented the Town this past Saturday at the Middle-Essex Softball League All-Star Games played in Tewksbury. Above, from left, Charlene Sullivan, Jackie Kennedy, and Lauren McKenna played for the U14 Team, while below, Kellie MacDougall and Rachel Mills represented the U12 Team.. The All-Stars were selected to represent their respective Wilmington Wildcat Summer Softball teams, which compete among 200 other teams throughout Eastern MA. The girls will return to their teams to finish the season this week. (courtesy photos).

Wilmington 9, Westford 7

The Wilmington U14 softball team travelled to Westford for the first of three league games last week.

On Monday they edged out Westford 9-7 in a well played game by both teams. Casey MacDonald went the distance on the mound allowing only five hits, four walks, and striking out three. She was aided by a strong defense, especially in the third and fourth innings when shortstop Jackie Parece made several fine plays.

Jackie Kennedy at second base made a nice play going to her right for a ball and in the sixth inning first baseman Lauren McKenna made a beautiful scoop play to get an out. Alyssa Cappuccio was strong behind the plate the whole game. Megan Howland was a steady presence at firstbase throughout the contest.

Katie MacDougall and Kennedy each had three hits, two runs scored, and two stolen bases for the Wildcats. Kelsey Mangan and McKenna both had two hits and two runs battered in. Other hits belonged to Kim Woods, Danielle Reynolds, and Kennedy Harper.

Wilmington 7, Wakefield 6

In another well played game on Wednesday in Wakefield, Wilmington survived a late game comeback by the Wakefield Fury to win it 7-6. The Wildcats scored six of their runs in the 2nd inning, highlighted by a 3-run home run by Kim Woods. With Charlene Sullivan and Kennedy Harper on base, Woods blasted a pitch over the centerfielder's head and never looked back as she raced around the bases for her second hit of the game.

Katie MacDougall had another three-hit night, including a first inning RBI-double. Lauren McKenna and Kennedy Harper each had two hits, with Harper adding two RBI. Sullivan, Alyssa Cappuccio, and Casey MacDonald also had hits for Wilmington.

Sullivan and MacDonald combined on the mound, scattering seven hits and striking out four. With the tying run at second-base in the seventh inning MacDonald induced a ground-out to end the game and secure the victory for Wilmington. Sullivan went five innings without giving up a walk and has now gone 15 straight innings over the last four games without giving up a base-on-balls. Prior to that she had only given up one walk in the previous 21 innings.

The defense was excellent once again as they pulled off two double plays. With a Westford runner on secondbase in the third inning, secondbaseman Jackie Parece caught a pop-up and alertly got the ball to shortstop Jackie Kennedy covering at second to catch the runner off base. In the fourth inning with a runner on first, Kennedy fielded a grounder, got the out herself at second and fired to Megan Howland at firstbase to complete the double play.

Wilmington 14, Reading 10

On Thursday Wilmington returned home to host the Reading Renegades at the West field. Down 9-0 after two innings, the shorthanded and never-say-die Wildcats fought back to take the win 14-10. Danielle Reynolds led the offense with two hits, two runs scored, and a RBI. Alyssa Cappuccio drove in three runs, including two on a single ripped to centerfield in the 4th when Wilmington began their comeback.

Kennedy Harper and Charlene Sullivan each reached base four times, with a hit a piece. Harper also had two RBI. Kim Woods got two RBI the hard way as she was twice hit by pitches with the bases loaded in the fifth and sixth innings. Katie MacDougall, Jackie Parece, and Casey MacDonald each had hits for Wilmington.

Kelsey Mangan played well at secondbase, making several good plays throughout the game. Helping out the shorthanded Wildcats, Alex Derian came in to play thirdbase and hustled back to make a catch on the edge of the grass. Sullivan came on to pitch in the third inning and gave up only one hit the rest of the way, striking out four.

The victory puts the Wildcats at 7-3 on the season with four games remaining. Congratulations to Lauren McKenna, Charlene Sullivan and Jackie Kennedy, who represented Wilmington in the Middle-Essex League All-Star game held in Tewksbury last Saturday. All three girls played well, helping their team to victory.

Legislators pass supplemental budget to give Z.N.E. 2.5m

Stone Zoo to benefit

By RYAN LAROCHE

Now that summer has finally decided to show up in New England, and the rains have conceded, the Stone and Franklin Park zoos have once again become options for parents looking to spend quality, educational time with their children.

And thanks to the work of legislators across the state getting a supplemental budget passed - Legislators including Representatives James Dwyer and Jason Lewis, along with Senator Richard Tisei - the zoos received some of the necessary funding needed to remain open.

Several weeks ago, news broke that Governor Deval Patrick had removed money from the state's budget needed by Zoo New England.

ZNE is a private non-profit group created by an act of the Legislature in 1992 and charged with re-opening Stone Zoo, maintaining accreditation for the Franklin Park Zoo, obtaining accreditation for Stone Zoo and generally to repair, enhance and otherwise improve the zoos and their collections.

ZNE is typically 60 percent state funded and 40 percent privately funded, which is the average split for zoos in the US. Originally, it was thought that it would take $6.5 million from the state to keep both zoos open. Unfortunately, the Governor vetoed portions of the budget ($148 million to be exact) so that he could place the money elsewhere, including funding for healthcare for legal immigrants.

Part of the money he was looking to relocate went to ZNE. Governor Patrick removed $4 million from the non-profit's budget, leaving them with only $2.5 million (that $6.5 million being a decrease of nine percent from last year's budget already, so the group appeared ready to take a major hit).

On July 22, in an effort to drum up support for ZNE, a letter was written and signed by several members of the House of Representatives (Lewis, Dwyer and Katherine Clark, who represents several districts in Wakefield) asking their colleagues to support ZNE's attempt to regain some of the funding that was taken away.

The letter said, in part, "The Franklin Park and Stone Zoos are an important part of the fabric of our communities . . . (unfortunately) the zoos received a 9% cut in the Conference Committee budget. Governor Patrick's veto, however, reduces funding by an additional $4 million, a 65% cut."

The letter concluded by stating that if funding was not restored, "The zoos would have no choice but to close their gates to the public. If so, Massachusetts would suffer the loss of a crucial economic, educational, workforce, and cultural resource."

In an interview conducted with Representative Lewis prior to the supplemental budget passing, who represents both Stoneham and Winchester, had ZNE been forced to work with a $2.5 million budget, "(Neither zoo) could continue to operate. They would have had to lay off non-animal care personnel."

In an ironic twist, closing the zoos would have cost the state more money than ZNE was looking for. Thanks to information provided by both Representative Lewis and Senate Minority Leader Richard Tisei, it was discovered it would cost the state $9 million the first year, $6.3 million the second year and $3 million the third year to close both the Franklin Park and Stone zoos.

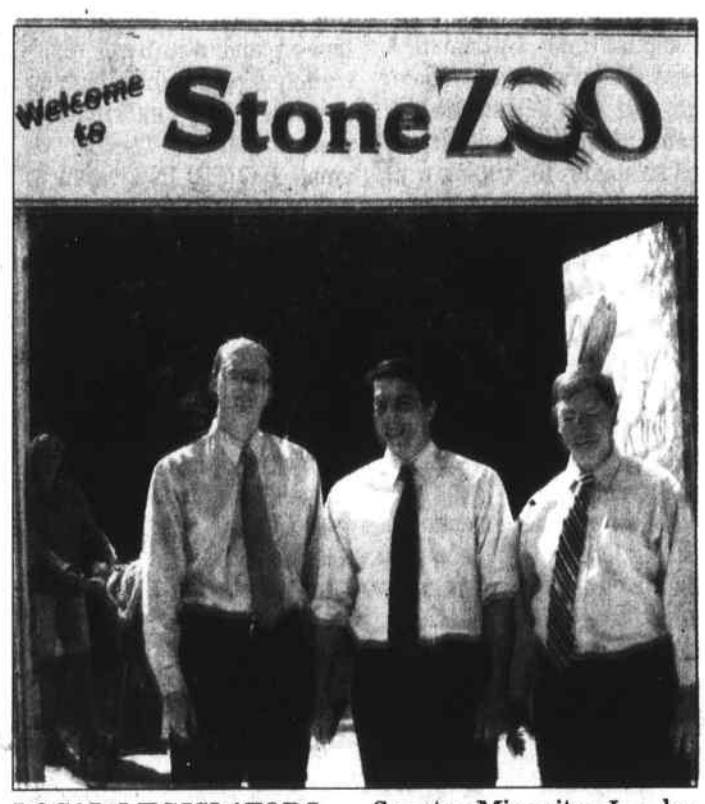

"You can't just move animals from one zoo to another," said Senator Tisei. "It costs millions of dollars." In fact, there are 1,559 animals housed at the two facilities. Moving them, plus providing food and veterinary care, would not only be costly, but also complex.

"20 percent of the animals are too old and wouldn't be taken by other zoos," noted Representative Lewis. What would have happened to those animals was unclear at the time, though ZNE backed off a statement saying they would be euthanized.

Knowing all that, both Representative Lewis and Senator Tisei, along with James Dwyer, who represents both Reading and Woburn and part of Stoneham, took up the fight to see that ZNE received enough funding to stay open.

"We're trying to work out a number to keep the zoos going, but we know it won't be

LOCAL LEGISLATORS - Senate Minority Leader Richard Tisei (R-Wakefield) (center) and State Representatives James Dwyer (D-Woburn, right)) and Jason Lewis (D-Winchester) have been working hard with thier fellow legislators, as well as the governor, to put 2.5 million back into the Zoo New England budget. Tisei, Lewis and Dwyer all represent parts of Stoneham. Bill Ryerson photo

STONE ZOO, as part of Zoo New England took a beating this budget season. But local legislators and others fought for funding to keep the facilities open for children and the public. Recently a supplemental budget was passed on Beacon Hill and it is now awaiting the governor's signature. (Bill Ryerson photos)

Movie Reviews

by Paul Feely

"FUNNY PEOPLE" DRAMATIC AND FUNNY

"FUNNY PEOPLE'" stars Leslie Mann, Adam Sandler and Seth Rogen. In it Sandler plays a comedian with a terminal illness. The movie is a perfect combination of drama and comedy, with a hugh dose of reality.

"FUNNY PEOPLE"
GRADE: ***

When famous actor/comedian George Simmons (Adam Sandler) learns he has a terminal illness, he takes a young comedian under his wing (Seth Rogen). As his condition worsens, he faces the reality that he doesn't really have any friends or anyone to love, but then as his condition improves, he must decide if the lessons he thought he had learned are really that important to him.

When word got out that Judd Apatow was going to make a film about comedy, I couldn't wait to see what he was going to do, but then I heard that he was bringing lymphoma into it. How can you make that funny? The answer is you can't, even when Sandler and Rogen are trying to joke with the European physician during his doctor's visit. There is an air of discomfort, and you end up feeling more sad than silly. The fact is, this film is very funny, but because of the gravity of both the illness and Simmons trying to deal with his wasted life, the laughs aren't big, but more heartfelt and emotional than usual.

Each of the performances are great, especially Sandler's. He really nails this role, and Rogen comes in right behind him. It was also great to see Leslie Mann get a chance to be in a less light-hearted role as well.

Ashe did with 40-Year-Old-Virgin and Knocked Up, as well as countless other hits he has produced over the last few years, Apatow seems to have put together a perfect combination of drama and comedy with a huge dose of reality. It also helps that not only is his writing as strong as ever, but his directing and storytelling skills are maturing.

The only weak links are a couple of sequences involving Andy Dick, Eminem and Ray Romano, which look like they were meant to be DVD extras that someohow ended up in the final version.

"THE UGLY TRUTH"
GRADE: **

The truth about 'The Ugly Truth' is that it's ugly.

From a director of such miserable movies as Monster-In-Law and Win a Date with Tad Hamilton! comes this so-called comedy, a predictable tale of opposites attracting.

The Ugly Truth's opposites are Katherine Heigl's Abby Richter, producer of A.M. Sacramento, a morning TV news show, and Gerard Butler's Mike Chadway, a self-proclaimed self-help guru of sex and relationships.

Beautiful and single, Abby has high expectations for men, a list of specific requirements that likely are impossible to meet. Her first exposure to Mike gets her bristling. She happens to catch his public-access TV program, a platform from which he espouses his thoughts about men and women. Mike's bottom-line message? Men are selfish dogs. Take them or leave them.

The script sets Abby up as an accomplished TV producer who succeeds despite the talent level she works with. But everything takes a U-turn when Mike comes aboard with his shock-talk, and the ratings take off.

Then the so-called independent Abby asks Mke to be her relationship coach, and the film really goes off the rails of plausibility.

Heigl and Butler,show how far appealing leads can carry a poor movie, but they can only do so much with what they are given.

This may look like a date movie, but MIke himself would probably recommend avoiding it.

"HARRY POTTER AND THE HALF-BLOOD PRINCE"
GRADE: ***

Potter, meet puberty.

There don't seem to be any cases of acne at the Hogwarts school in the "Harry Potter" films, but as this latest installment proves, when it comes to teen heartbreak, despairand adolescent rage young wizards with wands are as susceptible as those without.

The most satisfying accomplishment of David Yates' sixth movie in the series, the first-rate "Harry Potter and the Half-Blood Prince," is how well the beloved characters in the series navigate the white-water rapids of their teenage years without it being cliche.

At this point in the series, the movies could have either regressed into a cutesy, teeny-bopper outing or an action-flick franchise. Instead, it's pretty remarkable how much luck the "Potter" producers had with their core group of child actors. They've grown up before our eyes, but not too much, and they've done it in an endearing way.

As "Half-Blood Prince" begins, the vindicated Harry (Daniel Radcliffe) has come off his last fierce battle with the evil Lord Voldemort, but as everyone knows, there's a lot more to come. With each battle, however, Harry grows in stature and in his own understanding of his place in the world as "The Chosen One."

It's this new confidence of Harry's that moves the story line forward. When he returns to Hogwarts, we meet a new faculty member, as seems to be the custom in the series, this one Professor Horace Slughorn

In Slughorn's potions class, Harry ends up with a used textbook that belonged, according to the inscription, to the "Half-Blood Prince" of the title. As Harry and his friends, including Ron, Hermione (Emma Watson) and Ginny Weasley ponder a changing and scary world that seems to include evil at the very door of Hogwarts, we're also immersed in the mundaneness of their social lives, which adds a needed sliver of humor to what is darkening story line.

The iconic Dumbledore (Michael Gambon) plays an important role, as does the crucial Severus Snape (Alan Rickman), along with the blond and malevolent Draco Malfoy (Tom Felton), who's got a new dark scheme cooked up.

The film is big, boisterous, scary, and touching - and definitely not a little kid's movie. Potter is growing up, and the producers realize his audience is too.

"BRUNO"
GRADE: ***

Flamboyant Austrian fashion talk show host Bruno decides that he wants to become an A-list celebrity in America, but every attempt he makes turns out badly for him.

That's the whole plot behind 'Bruno'. If it seems kind of simple, that's because it means nothing to the rest of the film. Just like in his film Borat, comedian Sacha Baron Cohen mixes reality with scripted comedy to show a look at America that most Americans will be very uncomfortable with.

He learned a lesson with Borat though - a story can really sell the stunts. And so this loosely sewn together set of gags shown in a 90-minute tale is much more

STRESS MEETING IN NORTH READING

On Tuesday, August 11 at 13:30 p.m. Cindy Gittleman, a licensed educational psychologist, will lead a conversation about unemployment stress and strategies for coping with stress, at the Flint Memorial Library, 147 Park Street, North Reading. Ms. Gittleman, owner of Sunrise Mindfulness, specializes in teaching stress reduction. Her program is part of the library's lunchtime job networking group, which meets once a month.

Following the discussion, Ms. Gittleman will be available to lead group participants through some relaxation practices that can be used in day-to-day living. Those who would like to participate in this additional practice session may wish to bring a yoga or exercise mat so that they will be able to lie down comfortably. Alternatively, people may wish to engage in the relaxation practices while sitting in a chair.

The program is free and open to all. Please bring a lunch. The Friends will provide beverages. Please call 978-664-4942 for more information.

CENTER FOR GRIEF AND HEALING

The Center for Grief and Healing, a program of Hospice of the North Shore, is offering a new series of workshops and support groups for the fall. Free of charge, these groups offer several options for people grieving the death of a loved one, with each group specific to individual needs and preferences. All groups meet at the Center for Grief and Healing's offices at 78 Liberty Street in Danvers, unless otherwise noted.

Led by seasoned grief counselors, CGH support groups and workshops are open to anyone in the community who has experienced a loss, regardless of hospice involvement. "To help people who are grieving the death of a loved one, we offer a variety of options," said Nancy Sherman, LICSWE, director of bereavement for CGH.

Although CGH support groups and workshops are free and open to all, space is limited and advanced registration is required. To sign up or for more information, please call 978-774-5100 or email HYPERLINK "mail to grief@hns. org.

I have lost 110 lbs., 23% body fat, dropped 10 dress sizes & lost over 44 inches off my body!

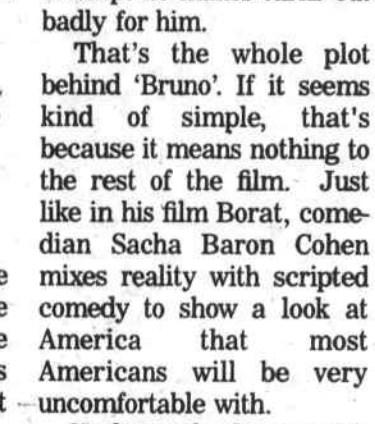

I used every excuse in the book to not get in shape & also used excuses to validate my weight gain. I was afraid of the equipment at the gym because I did not know how to use it. I was also intimidated because I knew I was not fit & felt I needed to lose weight before I could show my face at the gym. The best decision I ever made was contacting Get In Shape For Women. The staff at Get In Shape For Women is there to answer any questions I have & to help keep me on track with exercise & nutritional guidance. I have learned how to properly use the equipment & it was all because of what they have taught me. Not only have the trainers at Get In Shape For Women shown & explained to me the importance of Strength Training & effective Cardio, they have taught me what no other gym or diet program was ever able to, good solid no gimmicks nutrition. I know it sounds silly, but it is true. The trainers at Get In Shape For Women tie everything together for you & show you how it all works. They do that by holding me accountable for my Strength Training, Cardio & Nutrition Counseling with food journal reviews & bi-weekly weigh ins. This is the only program I have ever tried that ties it all together. Since joining Get In Shape For Women I have lost 110 lbs., 23% body-fat, dropped 10 dress sizes & lost over 44 inches off of my body! A picture is worth a thousand words, see for yourself. I know that I will reach my goals & it is all because of the great program & trainers at Get In Shape For Women. - Kerri Sugrue, Age 32, Fraud Auditor, Reading resident & Reading member.

READING LOOKS FOR EAGER BEAVERS (SO TO SPEAK)

The Reading Trails Committee has set up an Adopt-A-Trail program, and is actively seeking individuals, families, and groups to adopt trails or conservation areas within Reading," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

Training will be provided – no experience necessary!

"Responsibilities of trail adopters include: clearing trails of intruding branches and fallen logs, repairing trail erosion; posting or maintaining entrance signs and trail markers; making trail map suggestions, reporting larger maintenance needs to the Trails Committee, and reporting vandalism and inappropriate uses."

What? "The Town of Reading's Adopt-A-Trail Program is a volunteer program providing opportunities for members of the community to assist conservation area staff by monitoring, maintaining and enhancing trails and trailhead facilities."

Who? "School and youth groups, scout troops, church, community and service organizations, businesses, families, individuals or groups of individuals can adopt a trail. Anyone with an interest in trails and the outdoors is welcome to help preserve our land and provide safe, enjoyable access to the outdoors."

How? "Adopt-A-Trail volunteers assist Conservation Area staff in managing and maintaining trail systems. Activities include keeping the trail surface free of sticks, rocks and other debris, pruning small limbs from the trail corridor, cleaning waterbars and drainage ditches, and clearing debris from bridges, stairs, and viewing decks. Other responsibilities include litter clean-up, maintaining the trailhead area including parking lot, bulletin board and trail signs, and reporting vandalism, trail hazards or safety issues."

Why? "Adopting a trail provides an opportunity for you to be actively involved in conservation. Helping to maintain and enhance existing trails improves the resource for all to enjoy. The effort brings trail and nature enthusiasts closer to the environment and their community. Enjoy the time outdoors and personal satisfaction gained through volunteering on a conservation trail."

Next? "If you have a specific Conservation Area or trail in mind, let us know. If the trail you choose is available for adoption, we'll get you set up right away. If you want to know which trails are available in a particular area or region, we can help you find the right one. Once you've chosen a trail you will be contacted by the area manager who will set a date that is convenient for you to meet and discuss the requirements and benefits of trail adoption."

Questions? "ReadingTrails@ci.reading.ma.us or Fran Fink at 781-942-6616. Watch for more information at: www.readingma.gov/Pages/ReadingMA_BComm/trails."

WILMINGTON TAKES YOU FOR A RIDE

"For those residents who want to utilize the commuter rail at Wilmington Station, or who want to take in a Lowell Spinners' game, but don't want to deal with the parking, a new bus service between Wilmington and Lowell may be just the thing," notes the "Wilmington Town Crier."

Courtesy of the Lowell Regional Transit Authority.

"LRTA Administrator James Scanlan appeared before Selectmen Monday night to answer questions raised by the public at a previous selectmen meeting.

"LRTA buses, in actuality large 14' to 18' vans, began running down Route 38 from Tewksbury to Wilmington's train station. A few residents noticed the runs and reported it to Selectmen. Scanlan began his discussion Monday night with an apology for not coming to town officials to inform them of the LRTA's extension of its Lowell to Tewksbury route.

"The LRTA views the extension to the commuter rail at Wilmington Station on Route 38 as an asset and bringing value to the community.

"'You've really become a closer neighbor in some respects to Tewksbury and to Lowell,' said Scanlan.

"'It's going to be a great service to the community,' said Selectman Michael McCoy. 'You don't need to apologize. I think its great and I think it's a win for everybody....'"

WINCHESTER NURTURES COMMUNITY SERVICE

"Just before the schools let out for the summer, the School Committee heard an impressive report on the success of Connect & Commit, the high school's community-service learning program, from program director Kristen Ritchie, along with a personal testimonial from graduating senior Emily deRedon," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"'The 2008-2009 school year was a huge success,' Ritchie reported. 'The Winchester community has been more involved in service than ever before.' Nearly 600 students, teachers, and parents participated in service-learning activities both in the classroom and through the club.

"Among the 'signature events' were a blood drive, which collected 51 pints of blood, the Pennies for Patients fundraiser, which generated over $700 for the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society, the Desserts for Doctors auction, which raised nearly $800 for Partners in Health, and a Youth Service Day in which 150 young people devoted a day to cleanup and painting projects in town...."

MOVIES

entertaining than they would have been on their own as they were in his HBO program 'Da Ali G Show.'

Many may have thought he was pushing the boundary of decency with Borat, and he was, but Bruno is even more offensive, on so many levels. Whether it's the one of dozens of homosexual jokes, the African baby he adopts, the Ron Paul seduction, or the many, many full nude scenes, this movie crosses the line to the point where you wonder if the MPAA even watched it.

That being said, it is funny. Really funny. I found it hard not to laugh at the many antics and sketches. I felt bad for some of the folks, such as Ron Paul and the poor preacher he picks on. I actualy ws disgusted by others, such as the parents of the babies he interviews for a casting session. But regardless - I laughed at all of it. If he's good at one thing here, it's pointing a finger at how silly America's obsession with A-list celebrities really is.

Unlike Borat though, the story is not as good and the character of 'Bruno' is not as likable. Cohen and company probably upped the comedic ante a notch because they knew this and had to get fannies in the seats somehow. While Borat was just as silly, the narrative was strong enough to earn an Oscar-nomination for screenplay, and this story doesn't have a chance of that happening.

•MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA QUESTION: What major league pitcher hit three home runs in one game?

Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•DISTRICT 13 WELL REPRESENTED IN LITTLE LEAGUE STATE FINALS

WAKEFIELD finished as State runner-up as Jesse Burkett captured the State Title in the Major Softball division. Congratulations to Manager Dom Gasdia and the Wakefield team for a terrific run!

NORTH READING fell to Quincy in the deciding game for the Junior Baseball State title. Manager John Angelesco's North Reading team also had a terrific run including the last couple of games at the wonderfull LaLacheur Park, home of the Red Sox affiliate Lowell Spinners.

•Five members of the Wheaton College women's swimming & diving team earned Scholar All-America honors from the College Swimming Coaches Association of America (CSCAA) in recognition of their academic and athletic success during the 2008-09 season, while the squad qualified for Scholar-Athlete Team laurels.

Rising juniors SAMANTHA FARRELL (READING, MA/READING MEMORIAL), Stephany Perkins (Monmouth, ME/Monmouth Academy) and Dania Piscetta (Belmont, NH/Belmont) were named Scholar All-Americans, as each met the award's criteria of qualifying for the NCAA Championship while recording a minimum cumulative 3.50 grade-point average. Only two Division III schools from New England boasted more than Wheaton's three honorees.

•Need some help with this week's question? He played for the Braves.

•Mark your calendars for August 16 as the annual SWIMSUIT CLASSIC 5K RETURNS TO LAKE QUANNAPOWITT IN WAKEFIELD. The Mystic Runners Club organizes the event which has fast become a local tradition. The five-kilometer race starts and ends at the Lord Wakefield Hotel on North Ave., Wakefield at 9 a.m. on Sunday, Aug. 16 and circles beautiful Lake Quannapowitt. It is a flat, fast, and safe course, and there is plenty of free parking.

The entry fee is $15 through August 7 and then $18 until race day. Cotton duffle bags will be given to the first 150 entrants. Mix 98.5 will be on hand with free ice cream.

Online registration is available at the club's website, www.MysticRunners.com. Paper registrations are available at the club's weekly run every Wednesday evening at the Lord Wakefield Hotel, at The Hot Spot Café in Reading, or by emailing swimsuitclassic@gmail.com.

The Mystic Runners Club is a Wakefield-based organization with members from all over the Greater Boston area. The club announced that part of the proceeds is donated to the Wakefield Interfaith Food Pantry.

•Spots are now available for the annual Fall Prospect Camp hosted by UMass Lowell baseball coach Ken Harring on October 11th at LeLacheur Park in Lowell.

The camp, entering its third year, is designed for high school level players to join the experienced River Hawk staff in drills and game situations for local area scouts and college coaches. The players will receive pro-style workouts, strength and conditioning advice, and learn about the recruiting process.

"Our camp offers high school players the opportunity to learn about the college baseball process," said Harring. "They also get instruction from our coaching staff and learn about all aspects of our program."

Harring is entering his sixth season as head coach of the UMass Lowell baseball program and has guided the River Hawks to the NCAA Tournament in 2005, 06 and 07 and a five-year record of 149-99.

•Juniors Haley Catarius (Marshfield, MA) and JACQUI BARRETT (WOBURN) were among four UMass Lowell student-athletes were named to the U.S. Track & Field and Cross Country Coaches Association (USTFCCCA) Division II All-Academic Team, released recently.

Catarius and Barrett both repeated the honor from last year and joined senior Sarah Brassard (Oxford, MA), a two-time recipient who was last honored in 2007, and sophomore Lauren Raimondi (East Longmeadow, MA), who is making her first appearance.

To qualify for the USTFCCCA All-Academic Track and Field Team, student-athletes must have compiled a cumulative grade point average of 3.25 and have met the NCAA Division II Indoor or Outdoor automatic or provisional qualifying standard in their respective event.

Additionally, UMass Lowell was one of five Northeast-10 Conference and NCAA East Region institutions named among the USTFCCCA's Division II All-Academic Track & Field Teams. Collectively, the River Hawks have compiled a team grade point average of 3.112.

The USTFCCCA honors are the latest of a handful for UMass Lowell's foursome, as each recently earned a spot on the NE-10 All-Academic Track & Field Teams, announced on June 25.

Catarius, who maintains a 3.39 grade point average in exercise physiology, earned All-American honors twice this year, placing seventh in the outdoor 800 meters (2:15.70); and sixth in the indoor distance medley relay (11:57.90).

She also earned All-New England honors in the 800 (eighth, 2:16.27) and the 4X400 meter relay (fifth, 3:52.63), and was named the NE-10 Indoor Championship Most Valuable Athlete after she captured the 500 meters and 4X400 meter relay.

A shot putter, Barrett also enjoyed a special year highlighted by her qualification in the NCAA championship at which she placed 15th with a throw of 43' 5.0".

Previously, Barrett won the NE-10 outdoor title with a throw of 47' 4.25" and copped All-New England honors twice by placing fourth indoors (45' 2.5") and third outdoors (44' 10.75").

A liberal arts major, Barrett has maintained a 3.51 average.

•ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: Jim Tobin of the Boston Braves hit three home runs in a game on May 13, 1942 against the Chicago Cubs.

Zoo From S-1

$4.5 million," Senator Tisei said, prior to the supplemental budget's passing. It turned out to be $2.5 million, which added to the $2.5 million Governor Patrick left in the budget for ZNE, leaves the private non-profit with $5 million for FY10 or $1.5 million short of its original appropriation.

Several weeks ago, the three local legislators held a press conference at the Stone Zoo to announce they would attempt to override the Governor's veto. However, in an interview conducted last week via telephone, Senator Tisei revealed the House and Senate had other plans. "We're heading in another direction. We're going to put together a supplemental budget."

That budget, which passed late last week, gave the House and Senate more flexibility, allowing them to choose another number, to give some funding back to ZNE.

"We want to resolve this situation with the Patrick administration," said Representative Lewis. "It's enormously important to the communities and well-being of Massachusetts."

He continued, "The zoos are economic drivers; people come from all over the world. They're a living classroom."

Last year, the zoos set an attendance record, as 569,000 people visited both the Stone and Franklin Park zoos (250,000 visited the Stone Zoo alone). In fact, with attendance up 137 percent at both zoos over the past ten years, it seemed like keeping both zoos up and running would be a slam-dunk.

It hasn't always been that way, though. Back in 1989, the Stone Zoo was closed. Because the animals that lived there couldn't simply be shipped to the Franklin Park Zoo, the state was forced to maintain the facility at a significant cost.

A few years later, ZNE was created (thanks to legislation co-sponsored by Senator Tisei) to take some of the burden off the state and help re-open Stone Zoo. It did just that, and since 1996 gross sales have increased by 520% including new revenue from food, gift shop and rides. This represents an increase from just over $500,000 in 1996 to in excess of $3.1 million in FY 2009.

There has been discussion of closing the Stone Zoo once again, especially with the difficult economic situation the state is currently facing. In an editorial written in the July 28 edition of the Boston Globe, it was argued that the state couldn't afford to operate two "mediocre zoos."

"Zoo New England should," the editorial said, "get a supplemental budget appropriation, but only if it comes up with a phase-out plan for the Stone Zoo and a master plan that makes the Franklin Park Zoo the destination zoo it can and should be."

Senator Tisei argued vehemently against this idea, stating, "If the idea is to close the more successful zoo and force people to come to Franklin (Park Zoo), it won't work."

Currently, the Stone Zoo accounts for 40 percent of attendance, gate revenues and on-site membership acquisition at only an estimated 22 percent of the budget. Said Senator Tisei, "There is excellent leadership at the zoo. It becomes more self-sufficient every year."

Thanks in large part to local leadership, the Stone Zoo, as well as the Franklin Park Zoo, can continue to grow. They're affordable for families, educational, and provide many job opportunities (ZNE currently has a Zoo Teen program hosting 65 inner-city teenagers, with 1,000 alumni).

"It's an outside educational classroom," Representative Dwyer said. Speaking after the budget had passed, he noted how the Stone Zoo generates interest and creates an economical boost for Stoneham.

"Any revenue is a good thing," he offered.

Representative Dwyer hoped the Governor does not veto the supplemental budget, saying wistfully, "I wish I had a crystal ball."

As no one seems to have any prognosticative powers, it'll be a wait and see approach for ZNE. But as of now, people can breathe a sigh of relief. The zoos aren't going anywhere.

9TH ANNUAL GOLF TOURNAMENT

Brothers Bruce and Gregg Johnson, life-long Reading residents and owners of Lee Kimball of Winchester, have announced the 9th annual David K. Johnson (DKJ) Foundation golf tournament. The tournament will be held on Monday, August 31 at the Georgetown Club's 18 hole, championship course in Georgetown.

The foundation was created in honor and memory of their parents, David and Susan Johnson, to promote awareness and support for individuals and families affected by Alzheimers disease and other progressive dementia; and recognition of the need for alternative non-institutional care and family-needed support.

This year's proceeds will go towards Sanborn's expansion capital fund as they fulfill their dream of expanding Peter Sanborn place. The plan is to add an additional 52 mixed income units, a redesign, along with a major addition to the community space.

The DKJ Foundation wants to help individuals in the community and the foundation needs your help. There are many ways to support the annual golf tournament. Please consider golfing, sponsoring a hole, attending the reception, donating to the raffle or to the golfer's goody bags.

For further information call 781-838-6130.

VNA CARE NETWORK NEEDS VOLUNTEERS

VNA Care Network and Hospice, a non-profit home health care, hospice and wellness agency, needs volunteers to provide practical and emotional support to terminally ill patients and their families on the North Shore, Cape Ann and the Merrimack valley.

Volunteers receive training, supervision and support. Call Nancy Barcelo, volunteer coordinator, at 888-663-3688, ext. 4271.

GREEN BOOKS ARE HERE

Elder Services of the Merrimack Valley is thrilled to announce that the much anticipated Green Books have arrived and will be distributed throughout the Merrimack Valley.

The Green Book is a free resource guide to programs and services for older adults and adults with disabilities in the Merrmiack Valley. It serves as a terrific reference for over 150 categories such as housing, health insurance, nutrition/food, home health care, day care, long-term care facilities, employment as well as volunteer and educational opportunities.

This convenient guide is a great tool for both professionals in the aging field and consumers, especially those caring for loved ones who may be trying to find the best possible choices in elder and disability care.

The publication is free and available at Elder Services, 800-892-0890 or Northeast Independent Living Center 978-687-4288.

dren, or other guests.

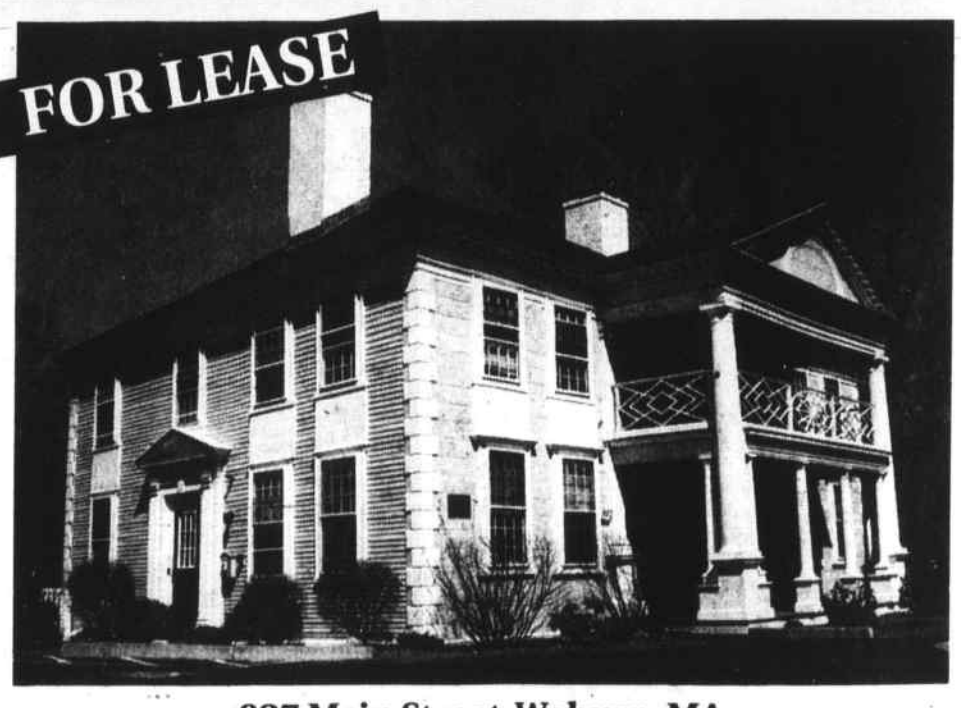

A long custom-shaped eating bar provides partial separation between the kitchen and the family room. Otherwise the area is wide open. Vaulted to the second floor (as is the dining room), the family room, nook, and kitchen are bathed in natural light from a wealth of windows. The second floor landing forms a unique bridge that overlooks the family room to the back, and the dining room and entryway to the front.

Holiday and formal gatherings can spread out in the spacious dining room and parlor. The parlor has a brick fireplace and is brightened by a wide bay window. Another fireplace warms the family room.

A utility room and powder room are equally convenient to the Corbin's kitchen and the two-car garage.

The Corbin's owners' suite features access to the deck, and has a private bathroom with a walk-in closet, raised spa, and compartmentalized toilet and shower. The upstairs bathroom, central to the two big bedrooms, has two lavatories. The vaulted front bedroom features a half-round window above.

Corbin extends a warm welcome

A generous wrap-around porch greets visitors to the country-style Corbin, a medium-size home that offers plenty of family living space, both formal and informal.

Owners of the home could confine their living to the ground floor if they wish, since the master suite is on this level. That leaves the second floor for children, visiting grandchil-
